Expect verbal fireworks in smog plan parley here

A head-on collision between the Southern California Air Pollution Control District and Southland business interests will occur Friday in Pomona over the controversial "New Source Review Rules" proposed by the district.

The proposed rules, ostensibly designed to reduce smog by forcing all new sources to comply with the strictest air quality standards, are being branded as economic disaster by business and labor leaders.

Opponents of the proposed rules claim as many as 27,000 jobs could be lost if the rules are implemented, which translates to more than $383 million in lost payrolls and more than a billion dollars in sales in Southern California.

"If these rules are adopted, there will be a mass exodus of businesses from Southern California. Unemployment will soar. We cannot jeopardize the future economic growth of this area by recklessly adopting rules," warns Donald E. Butler, chairman of the clean air committee for the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce.

Basically, the rules would prohibit the construction or modification of any business that would prevent attainment of national ambient air quality standards — which are much more restrictive than standards currently applied to existing businesses.

What that means, say critics, is that all businesses, right down to the local dry cleaners, will be caught up in bureaucratic red tape and forced to comply with standards either technologically unattainable or fiscally unreasonable.

And, explained Reine J. Corbeil, manager of environmental affairs for the Southern California Gas Co., there is absolutely no evidence that the rules would make any appreciable dent in the regional smog level.

"It would probably only decrease air pollution by one per cent, and even that's not proven," said Corbeil.

Corbeil contends that instead of forcing businesses to meet "unrealistic" standards, all businesses should be expected to use the "best available and proven technology" on new sources.

A number of business and industry spokesmen are also charging that the district is trying to "sneak" through approval of the rules by holding the public hearing on the Friday before Labor Day.

The hearing will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday in the Pomona Education Center Auditorium.

"Although it is being held at a time inconvenient to both the general public and news media, it is imperative that residents of Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties attend the public hearing and vigorously oppose the 'New Source Review Rules'," said Butler.

The district board that will make the decision on the rules is composed of Los Angeles County Supervisors Peter F. Schabarum and Kenneth Hahn, Orange County Supervisor Laurence Schmit, Riverside County Supervisor A.A. McCandless, and San Bernardino County Supervisor Dennis Hansberger.

Peso devalued by Mexico to check deficit

MEXICO CITY (AP) — After 22 years of getting 12½ pesos for a dollar, Americans should soon get about 20, or 60 per cent more, foreign bankers predicted today following the devaluation of the Mexican currency.

Treasury Secretary Ramon Beteta announced Tuesday night that the government was abandoning the fixed rate of exchange it had maintained since 1954 in an attempt to hold down the ballooning foreign trade deficit. Beteta said the peso would be allowed to "float," with its value determined by supply and demand.

Officials of foreign banks said the peso probably would stabilize at about 20 to the dollar.

The immediate effects will be to enhance Mexico as a tourist playground, if local hotels, restaurants and shops don't raise their prices accordingly, and to make Mexican products cheaper for foreign buyers. This should improve the balance of payments deficit, which has grown more than 400 per cent since 1970 to about $4 billion.

Tourism, Mexico's biggest industry, needed the boost. The Bank of Mexico reported earlier this year that the country was pricing itself out of competition with Europe and the Caribbean.

Irish seeking tough measure against IRA

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — The Irish government is going to ask parliament next week to declare a state of emergency for the first time since World War II to open the way for tough new measures against the Irish Republican Army.

Informed sources said the government wants a state of emergency so that guarantees of civil and human rights in the Irish Constitution of 1937 and the European Convention on Human Rights will not apply to the antiterrorist legislation the government will introduce.

The Emergency Powers Bill and a new Criminal Law Bill 1976 will be put before the Dail, the lower house of parliament, when it returns from summer holiday on Aug. 31.

Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave's government has a majority in both houses, so no hitch in passage of the two measures is expected.

Key action as legislature adjourns

Sentence system scrapped

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Legislature, which made some historic decisions about crimes in the last two years, has finished its 1975-76 session by rewriting the state's laws on punishment.

The lawmakers adjourned at 12:32 a.m. today after scrapping the state's 59-year-old indeterminate sentencing system, a onetime reform now condemned by prisoners and law enforcement groups alike.

It was a fitting final subject for the two-year session that included landmark measures liberalizing marijuana laws and legalizing long-outlawed sex acts between consenting adults.

It was also a victory for Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who achieved most of his legislative program for the second straight year.

Other Brown-backed measures that passed Tuesday on the final day of the session included a one-year freeze and a 5 per cent future limit on judges' raises, a measure making it easier to try juveniles as adults for serious crimes, and a bill to fund the state coastal commission.

The sentencing measure by Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, effective next July, replaces the current broad range of sentences, such as one year to life, with relatively fixed terms for most crimes.

Backers said it would end the illusion that a parole board could decide when a prisoner was fit to return to society, and with it the uncertainty of inmates about their release date, considered a major cause of prison unrest.

The fixed-term system, with longer sentences for prior convictions and shorter sentences for good behavior, "makes punishment more certain (and) more fairly imposed," Brown told reporters.

But the votes — 59-18 in the Assembly, 25-9 in the Senate — didn't reflect the more than 13 hours of wrangling, political maneuvers, hastily drafted amendments, and some of the year's most emotional speechmaking.

Conservative Sen. H.L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, said backers of the bill would have "blood up to your elbows" from the release of prisoners who are now held indefinitely.

Liberal Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley, said the bill was "a sincere but futile effort to reform a system bankrupt at the core," and predicted future sentences would increase, both under Nejedly's bill and under future legislation approved by Brown.

But Brown's aides, working with moderate-to-liberals in both parties, overcame opposition to the bill after beating back attempts to scuttle it with amendments making sentences longer and parole harder.

One amendment that was accepted, by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, would require a parole hearing transcript to be made public 30 days before a life termer is paroled — a response to the recent unpublicized parole of acid murderer Geza de Kaplany.

The juvenile justice bill by Assemblyman Julian Dixon, D-Los Angeles, was also a compromise between law enforcement groups and civil libertarians.

On the one hand, it would provide for trial of 16 and 17-year-olds as adults for 11 serious crimes, a proposal supported by Brown. Once sent to adult court, they would be sentenced as adults even if convicted only of a lesser offense.

On the other hand, non-criminal offenders such as runaways and truants could no longer be detained as lawbreakers, giving counties the option of setting up such programs as runaway shelters and halfway houses.

The coastal measure, providing $1.5 million to fund the coastal commission and nearly $30 million more for other coastal use, completes a three-bill package regulating coastal development.

Panel strips tax benefits of firms honoring boycott

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional conferees voted today to cut off millions of dollars in tax benefits to companies honoring the Arab boycott of Jewish businessmen and Israel.

In an unrecorded vote by show of hands, House members of a conference committee accepted the cutoff as a part of a big catch-all tax bill that includes an extension of individul tax cuts.

With expiration of a freeze on withholding taxes at midnight Tuesday, the law says the amount taken out of workers' paychecks can increase by what one senator estimates to be an average of $3 a week.

But Congress is taking steps to extend the freeze for 15 more days while lawmakers continue work on the bill. That would be the third extension of the lower withholding rates.

The bill would extend last year's individual tax cuts through 1977.

Charles Walker, an assistant Treasury secretary, said the Ford administration, which vigorously opposes the cutoff to companies honoring the boycott, will take the conferees' action into account in determining whether to veto the entire tax bill.

The cutoff prompted some bitter exchanges between Treasury officials and Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., its chief sponsor. Some members of the conference committee expressed reservations about the cutoff, but added they would go along because they knew any opposing position would be overridden on the floor of the House.

The Ribicoff amendment is not aimed at halting the Arab countries' refusal to deal economically with Israel.

Rather, it would deny foreign tax credits, tax deferral and export subsidies to any U.S. company's operations that benefit from Arab efforts to extend the boycott to American firms dealing with Israel.

The legislation would apply to any situation in which a U.S. company honors a country's request that it refuse to:

—Deal with Israel.

—Deal with other companies that do business with Israel.

—Hire Jewish employes.

—Do business with any firm whose managers or directors are Jewish.

Marines will take part in NATO war games in Norway

WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest U.S. Marine force to land in Europe in a dozen years will soon start to practice repelling a hypothetical Warsaw Pact attack on the Atlantic alliance's northern flank.

These war games involving 6,000 Marines will underscore a shift in the corp's strategic focus toward Europe after more than a generation of concentration on the Pacific region.

A Marine amphibious brigade from Camp Lejeune, N.C., will conduct over-the-beach landings and helicopter assaults in Norway this month and probably elsewhere in northern Europe later in the fall.

The Marines will be part of a multinational force of more than 80,000 NATO troops, some 200 ships and 300 aircraft that will engage in complex exercises ranging from the English Channel to Norway.

The U.S. Marines will join with British and Dutch commandos and Norwegian forces in mock battles with simulated Russian invaders for control of the rugged Mamsos-Steinkjer region.

MOURNS CHIEF'S DEATH

A Gadsden, Ala., fireman holds his head in anguish after battling blaze which took the life of Fire Chief Ralph Speer and two others. Blast and fire also injured 28 others.

Blast, fire kill 3, injure 28

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — Firemen had just put out a fire in a gasoline-tanker truck parked at a service station when the staton's underground fuel tanks exploded. The fire chief and two fire medics were killed, and 28 others were injured.

"How in the world it didn't get me, I don't know," fireman Clyde Jacobs said after the tragedy Tuesday in this Appalachian foothills industrial city.

Witnesses said the fuel tank explosion hurled the victims' bodies 30 feet and sent flames hundreds of feet into the air. It leveled the service station and a nearby trailer home and scorched an area of about three acres.

Jacobs, listed in good condition with burns on his neck and a leg, said he was at his home about a half mile from the small service station when he saw smoke rolling into the air. He raced to the scene, he said, and "we were trying to cool the tanker" when a huge fireball burst from two underground fuel storage tanks.

Jacobs said from his hospital bed that the three men who died had gone into the service station after noting that the underground tanks' pressure valve indicated it was safe.

Authorities said static electricity may have caused the original fire as the gasoline-tanker truck was unloading fuel. Firemen managed to extinguish that blaze, but about 10 minutes later the underground tanks exploded. Investigators said they had not determined the cause of the fuel tank explosion.

Killed were Fire Chief James Ralph Speer and paramedics Mike Thornton and Mike Patrick. A Baptist Hospital spokeman said 16 persons were admitted there after the explosion, and 10 others were treated and released. Two more were treated and released at Holy Name of Jesus Hospital.

One of those injured, Grover Morgan, was watching the fire from his home across the highway when the fireball rose into the air. He was reported in good condition.

Nothing left but the chimney

Neighbors watch as 2-story house stolen

Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies are trying to find a stolen, two-story house and the 10 men who took it during the weekend in La Puente.

The ranch-style house, valued at $75,000, was dismantled and carried off by the 10 men using a bulldozer, three trucks with 18-foot-long flatbed trailers, two pickup trucks and two automobiles.

The men arrived at the job at 435 N. Azusa Ave. Friday, Saturday and Sunday mornings at 8 a.m. and worked all day.

They finished dismantling the seven-room building Sunday and drove away, leaving only the chimney standing. Also left was a television set and sofa, which had been damaged during the dismantling.

Neighbors, who watched the work being done for three days, thought the removal was part of a flood control project underway nearby. But project directors, contacted Tuesday by investigators, said they had removed no houses.

The house belonged to Ferenc Szecsy, 58, who lives in Banning. He had placed it for sale and it was mostly vacant when it was carted away. A neighbor, who finally became suspicious, telephoned Szecsy in Banning and when the owner arrived at the location Tuesday evening, he found the whole house gone — except for the chimney, TV set and sofa.

Of beagles and rats: fluoride and smog

Abnormalties

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rats given fluoride in their drinking water at levels as low as in some cities' water systems developed abnormalities that led to miscarriages, stillbirths and birth defects, a scientist said today.

The new study, discussed at a symposium at the American Chemical Society meeting here, cannot be applied to humans, cautioned the researcher who conducted the experiments.

The study points to problems of too much politics and not enough science in the fluoridation controversy, said another participant.

Cities began adding fluoride to their water supplies 25 to 30 years ago because of evidence that it helped prevent tooth decay. Now, said Dr. Edward Groth III of the National Research Council in Washington, some 95 million Americans drink artificially fluoridated water.

The study on rats was reported by Dr. Aly H. Mohamed of the Universityof Missouri at Kansas City.

He told a news conference that fluoride levels in the drinking water given to test rats varied from 1 part per million (ppm) to 200 ppm. The rats showed damage to their chromosomes, part of the mechanism of heredity, regardless of the concentration of the chemical, Mohamed said.

A control group of rats with no fluoride in their drinking water developed none of the abnormalities, he said.

The scientists noted that fluoride is added to various city water supplies around the nations in amounts from 2 to 10 ppm.

Mohamed said his results cannot be applied to humans because even if it could be shown that humans were subject to similar chromosomal damage, the damage would be less likely to be translated into birth defects.

"On a political question like this there has been so much pulling and tugging in both directions that a great many scientists have not presented critical analyses," said Dr. Edward Groth III of the National Research Council in Washington.

"The policy-makers have had no way to determine accurately which side has more facts."

Lung disease

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Beagles breathing the same kinds of auto emissions found in the air of cities such as Los Angeles and Chicago developed lung disease that persisted two years after they were moved to clean air, a scientist said today.

Dr. Jerry Stara of the Environmental Protection Agency research laboratory in Cincinnati, Ohio, said most of the dogs tested developed lesions in their lungs that resembled emphysema.

"If urban pollution was to increase, the pathologists felt, this sort of situation may occur in man," Stara said.

The EPA's preliminary findings were reported to the American Chemical Society national meeting here. In other reports on air pollution, scientists said:

—While the catalytic converter almost eliminates some pollutants from auto exhaust, it introduces to the freeways a new hazard — tiny droplets of sulfuric acid.

—High doses of Vitamin E seemed to help rats and monkeys ward off lung disease from air pollution.

—Testtube experiments showed that the pollutant sulfur dioxide causes "hormonal overproduction" which, if also true in the human body, could cause behavioral changes.

—Sulfur dioxide can cause "cross-linking" of protein atoms, a complex chemical reaction in body cells which scientists believe has something to do with aging.

Stara said the EPA beagles were exposed for 16 hours every day for six years to varying auto pollution levels that ranged from three to five times the amounts found in Los Angeles and Chicago.

Then, he said, the dogs were moved to clean air environments at the University of California in Davis, and after two years their lungs seemed to be no better.

Dr. Robert K. Stevens of the EPA office at Research Triangle Park, N.C., said the agency had confirmed earlier findings of tiny droplets of sulfuric acid in the exhaust of automobiles equipped with catalytic converters. He stressed that too little is known about the effects of sulfuric acid on the lungs to say whether this poses a danger to humans.

MONDALE CAMPAIGNS AT COMMUNITY CENTER

The perils of campaigning: goofs hurt Mondale tour

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The vice presidential candidate was ready to meet dozens of Mexican-American children eating their breakfasts in a special community center program. But when he arrived, the children weren't there.

It was typical of what can go wrong in a campaign — and it was just one of a number of things, all minor, that have plagued Sen. Walter F. Mondale since the Democratic vice presidential candidate arrived in California late Saturday night, midway through his first major campaign trip.

None of the problems are likely to cost the candidate the election. But they are symptoms, according to Mondale staff members, of the early problems that a campaign can run into.

The organization put together by Jimmy Carter had no base from a primary campaign on which to draw for its general election campaign in California. Carter was trounced by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. in the state's primary in June and never put together a strong organization.

Local staff members said they viewed Mondale's visit here as a dry run for future trips — and a chance to work the kinks out of the campaign machinery.

The case of the absent children developed at the Centro Latino in San Francisco's outer Mission district, before Mondale flew to Sacramento Tuesday for a meeting with Brown and then flew here.

When Mondale and his motorcade pulled up to the community center, there weren't more than a dozen youngsters in the entire breakfast area, a large yellow and orange room decorated with children's drawings and a mural depicting life in the Chicano ghetto.

One official explained that the low turnout was the result of school registration falling on the same day as the senator's visit. He said 225 youngsters took part in the program last Friday morning.

Other problems:

—On Monday, reporters showed up at 9 a.m. in a small restaurant for a meeting between the senator and San Francisco Bay Area labor leaders. The union men showed up at 9:30, but they were kept waiting by the candidate for 30 minutes. Everyone had been given a different starting time for the meeting.

—A stationwagon carrying reporters to Mondals's appearances failed three times to start and a truck carrying baggage to the airport had to be given an emergency start.

—When the candidate spoke at a downtown hotel, delivering a major address on foreign policy, a special press room set up for reporters was locked, just when they wanted to use it. When it was finally opened, the specially installed telephones did not work.

One problem, out of the control of the campaign staff, developed during the 361-mile flight from Sacramento to Los Angeles aboard Mondale's chartered jet aircraft. It involved a fluctuation in the cabin pressure, and the airplane had to be flown at 23,000 feet rather than 30,000 feet.

Reagan will broadcast conservative viewpoint

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan, the former Wheaties sportscaster who also starred in movies, got elected governor and ran for president, is returning to his first career — radio.

Reagan, who narrowly lost to President Ford at the Republican National Convention last month, had a date in a Hollywood sound studio today to start recording a new nationwide commentary program.

He planned to tape the first 10 programs for the five-minute daily show, on which he is expected to voice his conservative philosophy. The show will be aired beginning Sept. 20.

So far, 97 radio stations have signed contracts to carry the show, said Harry O'Connor, Reagan's producer. O'Connor predicts that he will have 220 to 230 stations under contract by Sept. 20 and as many as 500 by the end of the year.

After losing at the convention, Reagan said he planned to campaign for Ford but would have to devote much of his time to earning a living through his radio show.

Before Reagan challenged Ford for the Republican nomination last November, he was on the air on 347 stations with a similar five-minute daily commentary called "Viewpoint."

But when Reagan announced his candidacy, the same Federal Communications Commission "fairness doctrine" ruling that barred his 51 old movies from television also forced him to give up the radio show.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona took over the "Viewpoint" program, which is now on about 100 stations.

The new show — titled just "Ronald Reagan" — is the former California governor's second return to radio and brings his long career full circle.

The 65-year-old former actor's first job after graduation from Eureka College in Illinois 44 years ago was as a $5-per-game sportscaster for radio WOC in Davenport, Iowa.

Harrises guilty: another kidnap trial facing them

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Emily and William Harris, sentenced to 11 years to life in prison, now face a trial in Northern California for the kidnaping of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

The two Symbionese Liberation Army members remained at the Hall of Justice jail here following their sentencing Tuesday for kidnaping, robbery and car theft. Authorities said they would be moved to Alameda County later this week for trial on a 19-count complaint stemming from the Feb. 4, 1974, Hearst kidnaping.

The Harrises showed no reaction when Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler urged that they spend a long time in prison. Under California law, he was not permitted to set exact limits on the sentences, and the couple could be released after as little as six years and eight months.

"It is this court's recommendation to the Adult Authority ... that the defendants serve an additional and lengthy period of confinement in the state prison," Brandler said.

Harris, 31, and Mrs. Harris, 29, who already had been jailed for nearly one year, delivered impassioned speeches before the packed court for lenience as they took turns speaking from a lectern turned toward spectators and reporters seated behind bulletproof glass.

"I am a revolutionary, and I do not lose hope for the future," said Emily Harris.

"I'm not too impressed by the system of justice," said William Harris.

The charges stemmed from a May 16, 1974, robbery and shooting at an Inglewood sporting goods store and the commandeering of two automobiles for an escape. Miss Hearst has admitted spraying the store with gunfire to help the Harrises flee.

Miss Hearst, an absent codefendant in the Los Angeles trial, will be tried next January on the same charges that were lodged here against the Harrises.

State briefs

DI sentenced

SAN DIEGO — A two-day general court-martial has ended in conviction of a Marine drill sergeant accused of taking $606 from recruits in his platoon.

Sgt. David Lee Wallace, 27, of Lafayette, Ala., was given a dishonorable discharge and a year's confinement at hard labor.

Wallace, who was suspended in May, was also ordered to forefeit $200 in monthly pay for 12 months. He was tried and sentenced by Col. Daniel F. McConnell of Indianapolis, Ind.

A spokesman at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot said recruits are allowed to keep only $5 upon arrival. A drill instructor escorts them to the post office, where money is sent home. Wallace was accused of keeping $384 of what was collected.

In addition, he was charged with taking up a collection for trophies and T-shirts, a violation of regulations.

CBers cited

LONG BEACH (AP) — In the wake of a kidnaping in which citizens band radio operators reportedly hampered a police stakeout, the city council has ordered its legal staff to draw up an ordinance forbidding CB operators from responding to police and fire calls.

"It is my opinion that CB operators do a distinct disservice when they arrive on the scene of a breaking incident," said Councilman Russell Rubley as he asked for the ordinance Tuesday.

The council, mindful of the kidnap and murder last week of a grocery store manager's wife, approved the proposal. Johann Seigman was found dead in a vacant field after her abudctors failed to show up at her husband's grocery store where he had been told to meet them with a ransom payment.

Police said CB-equipped motorists who converged on the area probably drove off the kidnapers.

"No matter how good their intentions might be, it is a matter of fact that police work is a highly specialized field. It is not something that should be attempted by the unknowing or the untrained," Rubley said.

Up the creek

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles County supervisors have ordered a formal hearing into possible tax dodges by luxury boat owners who moor their vessels locally but register them in Oregon and other states to escape property tax levies.

Supervisor Baxter Ward offered the motion Tuesday calling for the probe of county tax assessment procedures for boats. The motion follows a county grand jury request for an investigation of Los Angeles County Assessor Philip Watson's methods of appraising income-producing property.

Ward tried unsuccessfully last week to muster an investigation of possible listings of false ports by boaters who dock in Marina del Rey and Long Beach.

But Supervisors Ed Edelman and James Hayes, who had opposed him before, agreed to the probe Tuesday after a newspaper account about tax dodges.

Officials in Oregon say Los Angeles area boat owners have sought berths in that state to avoid paying personal property taxes to the county that range as high as $14,000 on a 100-foot vessel. In Oregon, the owner of such a boat would pay only $88 in annual registration fees, officials said.

Smith to court

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Former financier C. Arnholt Smith is back in federal court, defendant this time in a civil suit asking payment of $6.4 million to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

An attorney for the FDIC said as the trial opened Tuesday that Smith was at "the center of the entire scheme" involving loans from a bank he controlled to companies he controlled.

As receiver for Smith's United States National Bank, which failed in late 1973, the FDIC has been trying to turn unpaid notes into cash.

Smith and Sovereign State Capital, Inc., contend the loans were repaid. But FDIC attorney Fred Fields said the notes were returned but the loans were not repaid.

The loans were made in early 1972 to five firms described by Fields as "Smith-controlled companies." He identified them as Woodlake Farms, Kingsburg Oil Co., Balboa Internacional S.A., Strathmore Cattle Co. and Pesquera Tropicana S.A.

"People who signed the notes were asked to do so not even knowing what it was about," Fields told U.S. District Court Judge Leland C. Nielsen.

"In one case, a gentleman had never even heard of a company. In other cases, people were not empowered to sign."

Smith, 77, pleaded innocent to federal bank fraud charges last year. He was fined $30,000 and placed on five years' probation.

Prison sentences

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The legislature has sent Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. a bill that would scrap the way California has handed out prison sentences for the last 59 years.

Final passage came late Tuesday night despite claims by one foe that the measure would result in shorter prison terms and an increase in crime.

"Gentlemen, you pass this bill and you are going to have blood up to your elbows. A lot of it," Sen. H.L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, said during a bitter Senate debate on the measure.

At one point Senate officers turned off the microphones of Sens. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, and Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, to shut off a shouting match between them.

Can't complain

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says the 1976 session of the California Legislature passed "all you could expect" of his legislative program.

"I haven't any complaints at all. I think things went as well as can be expected," the Democratic governor said in an interview shortly before the lawmakers adjourned for the year.

Brown failed to win the major medical malpractice insurance reform or the broad land use plan to preserve prime agricultural land which he sought in his State of the State address to the legislature last Jan. 7.

And he conceded that one of the major issues facing the state, reform of California's school finance system, is still unresolved.

Claremont okays $12 million development

agrees to put up $300,000

The Claremont City Council has agreed to spend up to $300,000 of redevelopment funds for off-site improvements to help develop a $12-million business and industrial park on 47.3 acres north of Arrow Highway.

Acting as the Claremont Redevelopment Agency Monday night, the council by a 4-1 vote adopted a resolution approving a participation agreement with Aero-Meridian Corp.

The agency will spend up to $250,000 for off-site improvements while Charles Cooke, owner of the firm, is developing the first of five phases of construction — a $1 million building.

Deputy City Manager Paul Brotzman explained that the tax increment created by the $1 million building alone would be enough to pay the agency for the off-site improvements.

"The redevelopment agency wouldn't be out any money," he explained.

The no vote was cast by Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen who said that she had hoped that Cooke would have prepared a market survey for the property.

Cooke explained that no one can guarantee the presence of a market.

"It's impractical to rely on anyone to come up with a survey which will guarantee anything," he said. "A certain amount must be a gamble."

Norman R. King, agency executive director, said he would favor the agreement because the project is "consistent with the long-established zoning and general plan and with the city's intention to attract appropriate business activities to improve the tax base and provide additional jobs."

He said that under the agreement the agency is "virtually guaranteed" that the agency's investment in off-site improvements will be repaid to the agency as a tax increment.

"It is certain that when the project is developed fully the tax increment benefit will be staggering, perhaps as high as $500,000 a year," King said.

King explained that a strong "anti-speculation" clause in the agreement provides an incentive for land development. Cooke cannot sell any land without agency approval.

Cooke told the council that he already has spent $200,000 in "front money."

The agreement calls for Cooke to provide evidence that he has accepted a commitment for interim and permanent financing necessary for $1 million in construction during the first phase.

While the agency is putting in the off-site improvements, Cooke must be putting up his building.

When Mrs. Cohen said she had not received the information she wanted, King explained that he didn't believe that he promised information that would guarantee progress.

"We will not spend agency funds until we get a project that will get the money back," King said.

Cooke said that in Claremont he wants clean industry.

"If you're not ready to go when firms start inquiring, they will go somewhere else," he warned.

"The way to test the market is that you must build something," commented Councilman Frank Hungerford. The project is "fantastic from a financial standpoint."

Three South Claremont residents protested the project. One of them, Jim Keith, 337 Marygrove Road, said the project would have a negative affect on South Claremont.

"Our economy is recovering. Why are we rushing in to help out? I think we ought to stay out of it."

Jim Stickles, chairman of the Village Action Advisory Committee, called the project "a really important part of the development plan."

Phil Bauman, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said that the project will mean increased sales taxes.

Hays has deal to resign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for Rep. Wayne L. Hays and the House Ethics Committee are negotiating a deal for Hays to resign from Congress in return for a halt to the panel's investigation of payroll-sex charges against him.

The bargaining hit a snag late Tuesday on a question of timing. The Ethics Committee was reported to be considering a resolution that said Hays was resigning effective Sept. 8, that the committee's payroll-sex inquiry would be suspended immediately when Hay's letter of resignation was delivered but that the investigation would not completely terminate until he actually resigns.

The Hays' case also is being investigated by the Justice Department to determine whether the congressman should be prosecuted. Any Hays' resignation would have no impact on that investigation.

A reliable source said the Ohio Democrat had been expected Tuesday to deliver his resignation letter to Speaker Carl Albert and then to the Ethics Committee.

But sources later said Hays' representatives had not left the letter with the committee. The Hays' representatives indicated they objected to the committee's reluctance to guarantee that its inquiry will end until Hays actually leaves office.

The Ethics Committee adjourned Tuesday without taking any action on its resolution to terminate the payroll-sex investigation and Chairman John J. Flynt scheduled another meeting today.

Judah Best, Hays' lawyer, and Hays' press secretary, Carol Clawson, met with Flynt and Ethics Committee staff members for more than an hour after that.

The Ethics Committee investigation had been requested by Hays himself three months ago after Elizabeth Ray accused him of keeping her on his House Administration Committee payroll to be his mistress.

Hays admitted he had had a personal relationship with her but said the Ethics Committee investigation would exonerate him by establishing that she had done committee work for her $14,000 a year.

But when Hays dropped his reelection campaign three weeks ago, he said in an interview that one reason was that "I don't want to give that woman a chance to make another appearance."

His offer to resign from Congress was reportedly made shortly after the Ethics Committee voted Monday to begin hearings Sept. 16 despite his lawyer's plea that he is too depressed to defend himself.

Committee members have said a resignation would make their investigation moot.

The payroll-sex charge which sparked a Capitol Hill scandal earlier forced Hays to resign as chairman of the Administration Committee and chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee.

There is no Mafia! sociologist debunks the secret society

NEW YORK (AP) — There is no Mafia, says an Italian-American sociologist who once believed in it and says he has been called "every name in the book" for debunking it.

At least, says Joseph L. Albini of Wayne State University, there's no secret Sicilian society that has dominated organized crime in America.

"The word 'Mafia' has come to be a synonym for American organized crime, but Mafia is a myth," Albini said Tuesday in a paper prepared for the annual meeting of the American Sociological Association. "Italians like other groups have participated in organized crime, but Mafia as a secret society does not exist, and never did."

He said that in 1965 an Italian parliamentary commission established to study the question of Mafia in Sicily found no secret society.

However, earlier this year, the Italian parliament's anti-Mafia commission, mandated specifically to "investigate the phenomenon of the Sicilian Mafia," concluded after 13 years of study that the Mafia did exist and was thriving.

And Albini noted that the Kefauver Committee in 1950 and the McClelland Committee in 1963 both concluded that the secret Sicilian Mafia existed in the United States.

He said belief in the Mafia has allowed the American public to "hide from itself the fact that corruption, sale of illicit liquor and drugs, participation in illegal gambling and other illicit activities were not enterprises which were forced on the American public by this sinister organization.

"Syndicated crime is part of the social system of American society itself. It exists because there are people who demand and who deliver illicit goods and services, and politicians who offer protection."

Such crime has continued irrespective of the particular ethnic groups — Irish, Germans, Jews, Cubans, blacks and others — which have been involved in it throughout its history, he said.

"What in reality have the Italian syndicate participants done that is so different from the others?" Albini asked. "They have employed violence. So have all the other ethnic group participants in this form of crime. They have employed corruption of public officials. So have all the other participants."

Albini said the myth had become so powerful that "many people in organized crime think they are Mafia because they are as confused as everyone else."

Albini said that when he began his research into organized crime in 1964 he interviewed informants and undercover policemen "and found they didn't know what was going on."

He said he had been "accused of trying to vindicate the Italians because I'm Italian, but many non-Italian scholars have said the same thing."

Albini said the term Mafia probably comes from an 1865 play, "I Mafusi della Vicaria," about plotters in a prison in Palermo, Italy.

He predicted that the myth of the Mafia was beginning to fade from the public mind. "Its place has now been taken in a new form by blacks and Puerto Ricans," he said. "They will be the new scapegoats."

Spotlight on area crime

Three youths rob drive-in

Three youths armed with a sawed-off shotgun and a hand gun robbed the Mission Drive In Theater at Mission Boulevard and Ramona Avenue in the Montclair area Tuesday night, West End sheriff's deputies reported.

Deputies are seeking the three youths, all blacks, who walked up to the two ticket booths about 10 p.m. and pulled the guns.

The youths ordered ticket clerks Christopher Miller and Candy Lighthall to hand over all the cash from the cash box. The clerks complied.

The robbers then took Miller's wallet, jumped into a small brown compact two-door sedan and sped off on Ramona Avenue. Miller and a customer, Joel Berger of Corona, gave chase but lost the robber's car near East End Avenue, deputies said.

Deputies said the robber holding the shotgun was 17 to 18, 5 feet 4, 100 pounds and medium build. He was wearing Levis. The second gunman was described as 17 to 18, 6 feet tall, 135 to 140 pounds, with a medium afro haircut with pink curlers. The third robber was about the same age, 6 feet tall, 135 pounds with a medium afro.

Girl kidnaped, raped

A young POMONA girl told police early Tuesday she was kidnaped from the area of Holt Avenue and Dudley street by three youths who raped her.

The attack occurred on the grounds of Ganesha High School. She was found later wandering in a hysterical condition by persons living in the neighborhood.

The victim said she was returning from a babysitting job when she was forced into the car and driven to the school. Police said examination at Pomona Valley Community Hospital revealed facial injuries and other signs that she had been beaten. She was released after treatment.

Robber fires shots

A robber fired several shots at a doughnut shop employe early Tuesday after robbing the place, POMONA police reported.

The victim, Don Gotto, 20, said three young men entered Winchell's Donut House at 2301 N. Garey Ave. and one pulled a .22-caliber rifle from beneath the full-length overcoat he wore. One other man drew a revolver and they demanded money.

After putting the cash in a paper sack, the three left out the front door and at least one of them fired at Gotto. He ducked behind the counter and two bullets hit the wall behind him. He was not hurt.

The robber with the rifle was black and wore the long overcoat. He was about 22 years old.

Narcotics arrest

West End sheriff's detectives arrested an 18-year-old Pomona man on narcotics and stolen property charges after undercover officers made several purchases of heroin at 11053 Roswell Ave. near MONTCLAIR.

Gilbert Romo, 18, of 985 W. Ninth St., Pomona, was arrested after detectives obtained a search warrant for the Roswell Street address. Romo, found at the home, was booked in West End Jail for investigation of possession of stolen property, heroin and narcotics paraphernalia.

Detectives said in the search of the home they found a large quantity of suspected stolen stereos, stereo equipment, and other items, a quantity of heroin and narcotics paraphernalia.

Detectives said that several more arrest warrants for occupants of the home are being sought.

Shots fired; four held

Four young men, two under 18, were arrested Tuesday in VALINDA and accused of firing several shots into a home at 16432 Pocono Ave. a few minutes earlier.

The four, Tony Moreno Teofilo, 19, Valinda, Maxie Joe Flores, 20, West Covina, and the two juveniles were stopped near the scene of the shooting by deputies who were in the area when the incident occurred. The officers said they found an automatic pistol in the car. The four were booked on suspicion of firing shots into an inhabitated dwelling — a felony.

Senate puts off antitrust showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is delaying final action on a bill that would strengthen enforcement of antitrust laws until after the congressional recess for Labor Day.

A cloakroom huddle after an angry floor debate late Tuesday produced an agreement to delay a showdown vote on the measure until next Wednesday.

The Senate alloted two hours for additional debate on the bill next Tuesday, the day senators return from the Labor Day recess.

Earlier Tuesday, the Senate voted 63 to 27 to put its antifilibuster rule into effect to limit debate on the controversial bill. The bill would permit state attorneys general to sue in federal courts on behalf of consumers for triple damages for price-fixing or other antitrust violations.

In price-fixing cases, damages could be assessed on the basis of statistical samples of representative consumers without having to prove injury was suffered by an individual consumer.

The legislation also would require that the government be notified in advance of planned mergers.

Union doesn't like it

Glimmer of hope in RTD walkout?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Another marathon bargaining session between members of the Rapid Transit District board of directors and striking bus drivers ended on an optimistic note early today.

County Supervisor Baxter Ward, a member of the RTD board, issued a statement that the seven board members at the meeting had considered a proposal for three-year agreements with the drivers and mechanics unions "which is felt can be recommended to the board of directors based on working out the cost figures."

The statement said the total cost would not exceed a 21 per cent increase, with no single year to exceed 7.5 per cent.

"The statement stands," Ward said when asked for clarification.

"We really don't understand the statement," said a spokesman for the United Transportation Union. "We've been in negotiations for many long hours and no agreement between the union and the district has resulted from these negotiations tonight."

The full 11-member RTD board has a regular meeting scheduled Thursday.

A UTW spokesman said no further negotiating sessions were scheduled, but a spokesman for the mechanics union said their negotiations were expected to continue today.

Bus mechanics and maintenance men will vote Friday on whether to accept an earlier offer from the RTD, but their local president, Jerome Long, said his membership "is going to turn it down."

The drivers walked off their jobs Aug. 23, idling buses which carried about 750,000 riders a day in four counties.

The earlier RTD offer called for a 19.5 per cent salary-benefit increase over three years, while the union has sought nearly 25 per cent. The Amalgamated Transit Union, which represents the mechanic-maintenance workers, has been offered 18.24 per cent, compared with the 22.97 per cent they have sought.

The board has been adamant in holding to offers RTD spokesmen insist are higher than those recommended by the state fact-finding commission.

And Board President Byron Cook remained adamant during the luncheon meeting Tuesday with Mayor Bradley, Supervisors Kenneth Hahn and Baxter Ward, nine other RTD board members and various union officials.

Cook said the district is prepared to withdraw its present offer and go back to the settlement recommended by the governor's fact-finding commission. He said he may introduce a motion to that effect Sept. 8.

Louisville busing fairly peaceful

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The second year of court-ordered public school busing in Jefferson County began peacefully today and officials said attendance appeared good despite a call by antibusing forces for a boycott during the first three days of classes.

Hours earlier, police had used tear gas to break up an antibusing demonstration by more than 1,000 persons.

Can new technique improve eyesight?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Specialists are straightening patients' eyes the way orthodontists brace teeth, but not all doctors see eye to eye on the controversial new procedure.

The technique, called orthokeratology, involves treatment with a series of special pressure-inducing contact lenses designed to gradually reshape the eye.

Some doctors are calling it preventive medicine. Others are worried the treatment could be permanently harmful and only temporarily helpful.

"Historically, we've always had to wait for a problem to develop and then do what we could to alleviate it," said Dr. Stuart A. Grant, the Los Angeles optometrist who helped develop the special lens. "But now we have an actual preventative. If we can stop problems before they develop, people won't have either the expense or the trouble later."

Orthokeratology is designed to help persons with refractive problems — near-sightedness, far-sightedness or astigmatism. Grant estimated that most of the 100 million persons in the United States who wear glasses fall into these categories.

In orthokeratology, a person wears a succession of graduated contact lenses, each one pressing the cornea a bit more toward its proper curvature. The eyes are rechecked every six weeks and new lenses are prescribed as the curve improves.

The treatment normally lasts two years and costs about $1,200, he said.

Grant said the technique can benefit nearly everyone with a refractive problem. "The only question," he said, "is to what degree we can help. That depends on how bad a person's eyes are when he comes in for treatment."

Dolores Walsh, administrative director of professional services for the Jules Stein Eye Institute at UCLA, said orthokeratology is not recommended "because it may prove harmful and is not permanent."

Dr. Jerome Pearlman, an associate professor of ophthalmology at the center, added, "The physiology is unsound because once you remove the lens, the cornea will revert to the same shape it was before. Optometrists think it is perfectly safe but when people run into trouble they come to us (ophthalmologists)."

Orthokeratologists disagree. They cite several successful cases, including:

—A 6-year-old girl who had been entered in a braille class because her vision was deteriorating 50 per cent every three months. Now, at age 15, she has 20-20 vision.

—A New York City policeman suspended because he lied about his 20-200 vision. After six months of treatment, his sight has improved to 20-40, good enough to qualify for a neighboring police force.

—A woman in her late 20s who had 20-500 vision in both eyes. Her sight improved to 20-50 after a year's treatment.

An estimated 10,000 persons have been treated by the technique since 1960. But only in the last few years has the technique become widespread.

Grant said the technique was discovered accidentally, while fitting a patient with regular contact lenses. Tests showed some patients' eyes improved, but it was unpredictable.

"We decided that controlling this change would benefit the patient more than just letting it happen."

Lockheed launches the 6100 mile edition of the world's most reliable big jetliner.

British Airways chooses the new long-range TriStar.

After many months of evaluation, British Airways has chosen a new model of the Lockheed L-1011 TriStar for its longer routes. Called the Dash 500, it goes into service in 1979.

In making its decision, British Airways had more than two years of experience in operating a shorter-range model of TriStar. That model has not only been the world's most reliable* big jet for 35 consecutive months, it also is the quietest, as certificated by the FAA.

The new model adds almost 2000 miles to the range of TriStar. It means passengers will be able to enjoy TriStar reliability and comfort on nonstop routes such as London-Los Angeles, Sydney-Hong Kong and Buenos Aires-New York. The long-range TriStar will be powered by three Rolls-Royce RB.211-524 engines, each with a thrust of 50,000 pounds.

A 6100 mile TriStar. The world's most reliable big jetliner has taken a long step forward.

The world's most reliable big jetliner.

One of the technological achievements of the 55,000 workers at Lockheed.

*Based on airline statistics covering all big wide-body jets. The statistics, which record mechanical delays and flight cancellations, reflect the ability of TriStar to operate on schedule.

City manager calms fears

Hazardous waste disposal sparks pollution queries

City Manager Bob Fast of West Covina says area residents need have no alarm at this time about the possible deposit of residual material from a toxic chemical in a landfill site in West Covina.

Fast explained that a chemical firm has applied to the state Department of Health's Hazardous Waste Division and the Environmental Protection Agency to determine if it's safe to deposit a herbicide in the Class One landfill site owned by B.K.K. Co.

The site is located in a canyon at the southern end of Azusa Avenue. The waste disposal company has a permit to operate in West Covina.

The city manager noted that state and federal agencies which will make the decision on the deposit are charged with "protecting the public and making sure that deposits will not be harmful to humans."

The request is a "routine, ongoing administrative process" that is not new, but has been treated with sensation by some alarmists, Fast commented.

"The state from time to time has given routine approval for toxic materials to be deposited in landfills. Some are making it seem that this is the first time a toxic material has been proposed for deposit," he added.

Fast said a herbicide is a liquid defoliant formerly used in Vietnam to strip trees and forest areas of foliage that served as hiding places for the Viet Cong.

The chemical was sold to a chemical firm by the U.S. Air Force following the end of the Vietnam War.

Purpose of the sale was for the chemical firm to reprocess and re-cycle the herbicide for commercial purposes.

The principal amount of the chemical has been re-sold, but there is residual material left over that can't be sold, Fast explained. Among this residual material is the charcoal that was used as a filtering agent that now contains traces of the toxic chemical.

This charcoal has been stored in steel vats and sits somewhere in a Wilmington warehouse, awaiting the decision of the Hazardous Waste Division and the Environmental Protection Agency before being moved.

"If it qualifies for a Class One landfill site, we've got one of the few class one sites in the area. If it doesn't qualify for a class one, I don't know where it is destined," Fast said.

He pointed out that the site owned by the B.K.K. Co. is stringently regulated by the City of West Covina and is among the prime examples utilized by the Environmental Protection Agency as criteria for other sites.

Fast said he did not know how long the agencies would take in arriving at a decision on whether the deposit will be made in the West Covina site.

Cal Poly deadline September 10

Cal Poly Pomona will close admissions for fall quarter, daytime undergraduate students Sept. 10 due to the increased numbers of students now enrolled for the quarter which starts Sept. 23.

Winter and spring quarter admissions remain open. Registration also remains open for students wishing to enroll only in evening undergraduate classes or day or evening graduate courses.

According to Richard G. York, director of university admissions and records, registration for these classes will remain open through Sept. 29.

Undergraduate evening students may enroll in five of the university's six schools and the Teacher Preparation Center. Still open to evening undergraduates are the schools of agriculture, arts, business administration, engineering and science. Admission to the school of environmental design is closed.

Graduate students may enroll for classes in 11 of the 14 graduate programs: master of business administration, master of science in business administration, agriculture, economics, physical education, biological sciences, chemistry, mathematics; master of arts in English and education; and master of engineering.

Admissions are closed for the graduate programs in architecture, landscape architecture and urban planning.

Persons interested in additional information, or in applying for admission, may call Cal Poly Pomona admissions office at 598-4291.

ASPHALT STROLL — A doe and fawn take a stroll down residential street in Greenbrae, a few miles north of Golden Gate Bridge in Marin County. Pair was searching for edible shrubs and grass in yards. Naturalists say lack of rain last winter dried up normal feeding grounds for deer and other wildlife forcing them into suburban areas.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago, Gen. George Washington reorganized his army into three divisions.

Updraft held cause of crash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Examiners for the National Transportation Safety Board say severe updraft was to blame for the crash of a commuter airline that killed six persons last April 15 near Palm Desert.

In its report released Monday, the board said an updraft or strong wind gust caused the twin-engine Beechcraft to break apart in flight and crash into the Santa Rosa Mountains. Investigators said they found no evidence of malfunction in the plane.

The crash killed the pilot, Lawrence Bosler, 30, of Manhattan Beach, and his five passengers.

TONY CIOTTI

LEE YOUNG

Tony Ciotti and Lee Young are charged with the responsibility of making sure provisions of the building and housing codes within the City of Montclair are met.

Both enforcement officers apply codes equally to areas within the target sections of the federal Community Development Act and those areas not included within the CDA. Ciotti handles the CDA section and Young the remainder of the city.

Main goal of the Community Development Act and code enforcement program, according to Mike Loehr, community development director, is "to maintain existing housing quality and prevent decay."

"The average home in Montclair is about 15 years old," Loehr added, "which is right at the turning point for maintenance. If houses are maintained now, they will survive another 15 to 20 years. If not maintained, they will deteriorate into a housing and safety problem."

Code enforcement program is being augmented by the funds from federal legislation. Past practice merely was to inform the homeowner of code violations and leave it to each individual property owner to correct the violations.

"Now we are attempting to give people assistance in correcting the problems," Loehr noted. "We have the advantage of the CDA to give more backup service to the areas of concern. The backup service includes things like home improvement loans, counseling services and administrative support.

"The CDA program has been operating a year now and we're finding really good results, especially in the apartment areas. There has been complete refurbishing of total blocks, including redecorating, converting carports to garages and landscaping. We still have a long way to go, but it's nice to see results."

Persons wishing information on the Community Development Act may call Loehr or Lee McDougal, housing coordinator, at 626-8571.

Schooltime registration

Pre-kindergarten

Enrollment in the state-funded program for pre-kindergarten boys and girls from low income families in the Pomona Unified School District began today.

Parents are required to spend a minimum of two hours a week in the classroom.

Classes are limited to 16 pupils each. There are classes at Allison, Arroyo, Kellogg, Lexington and San Jose elementary schools.

Boys and girls are in class Monday through Friday from 8 to 11:30 a.m. They are served snacks. Free lunches are available in the school cafeterias for those who qualify.

Lunches will not be served in the preschool classrooms this year.

Judy Sneed, assistant supervisor of the preschool program, said registration for fall classes will be on a first-come first-served basis.

When registering children, parents must bring birth certificates, immunization records and proof of income.

It is not necessary for a family to live within a school area to register a child for preschool class at the school. However, they must provide their own transportation.

Enrollments will be taken at the preschool office in Portable C on the grounds at Kingsley Elementary School, 1170 Washington St.

Appointments may be made by calling 623-5251, Ext. 317.

Upland

New residents of Upland who have elementary or junior high school age children and all families with kindergarten age youngsters are encouraged to preregister these students now.

The students may be registered from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday at the elementary or junior high school designated for their children.

Classes start Sept. 13 in Upland School District.

Probation plan eyed

The controversial probation subsidy program will be audited by the state legislature's "watchdog" for efficiency and economy in government programs, according to Assemblyman Bill McVittie (D-65th Dist.).

McVittie said he received word from Assemblyman Mike Cullen, chairman of the Joint Legislature Audit Committee, that the auditor general's staff will begin going over the books in September.

State Sen. George Deukmejian, Long Beach Republican, has joined McVittie in the request for an audit.

The probation subsidy program was designed to reduce the time persons spend in prisons, and was geared toward rehabilitation in local communities, said McVittie. The state reimburses the county for providing probation services.

"What's happened is that felons who were not ready for release have been turned out in the streets and committed more crime," McVittie said.

Planner acquitted

SANTA ANA (AP) — A Superior Court jury has acquitted former Fullerton planning commissioner LeRoy Rose of bribery charges stemming from transactions involving a condominium project.

Rose 48, was found innocent Monday of two counts of bribery and two counts of bribery conspiracy.

Eatery reopening touches off debate

'God-mammon' cited

Officials from the First Baptist Church in Pomona have failed in their attempt to block the issuance of a liquor license to one of the city's most well-known restaurants — St. Charles Grill.

Closed for several years, the restaurant is located across Holt Avenue from the church and school grounds at Holt and Garey avenues and church officials claimed serving of liquor would have a bad influence on the area.

The Rev. Edward B. Cole, pastor of the church, told the council Monday he welcomed a new restaurant at the location but didn't want liquor being served "right on our doorstep."

"We don't oppose any business. We want to be good neighbors, but the point is the proximity," said Mr. Cole, noting that 500 to 600 children attend the church school each day.

Pomona Realtor Jack Booth, representing the restaurant applicant, Josef Benz, disagreed with Mr. Cole.

"St. Charles Grill has been there serving liquor for 43 years. It's one of the best known restaurants in the city and there has never been any problem there," said Booth.

Booth took exception to some of Mr. Cole's statements referring to a choice between "God and mammon." Booth said it was unfair to allow Cole to "preach a sermon."

The appeal of the church was denied by the council, 3-2, and the liquor license will be allowed.

Councilman Charles Bader, joined in the vote by members Adrian Wright and Georgia Grove, expressed the majority opinion:

"If we deny the permit we will find ourselves in the position of condemning a building by disallowing the use for which it was built.

"I support a full-service restaurant, not a bar."

Councilman Benjamin Ochoa and Mayor Ray Lepire voted against granting the permit.

In other business Monday, the council set the preliminary boundaries of the proposed Holt Avenue-Indian Hill Boulevard Redevelopment Project Area.

Those boundaries generally are Holt Avenue south to the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks between Towne Avenue on the west and Mills Avenue on the east.

Excluded, however, are the residential neighborhoods along Monterey Avenue between San Antonio and Loranne avenues.

With the preliminary boundaries now set, the city will begin notifying property owners in the proposed project area so that public hearings can be scheduled to see if property owners approve.

Ocean air snaps heat wave

Cool moist air from the Pacific is expected to snap the valley's four-day heat wave today but the smog will linger on.

Tuesdays high reading dropped to 96 in Pomona, eight degrees lower than Monday, and the weatherman predicted continued cooling for the next three days with afternoon temperatures in the upper 80s.

There is a likelihood of night and early morning cloudiness through Friday, but the forecast calls for mostly fair skies and more comfortable weather.

The mercury also dropped 10 degrees at Ontario where residents had sweltered in 110-degree heat since Sunday.

It may be somewhat cooler today and Thursday throughout the valley but there will be no relief from the smog. Air pollution control officials have called for first stage episodes for the fifth straight day particularly in foothill communities.

CUCAMONGA CHANNEL DIGGERS

Large bulldozers remove dirt from the floor of Cucamonga Flood Control Channel near Hellman Avenue south of Chino as part of a $4.5 million contract. The channel will be dug to a 17-foot depth, with the sloping walls 150 feet apart at the top. The channel, when completed will be capable of carrying 40,000 cubic feet of water per second. Excess channel dirt is being hauled to a site near Pomona Freeway and Adams Street for use in building Devore Freeway. The initial contract calls for two miles of concrete channel between Hellman and Remington avenues plus bridges at Hellman and Schleisman Road.

Veterans will unveil memorial

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2018, Pomona, will dedicate the area's first war monument to the dead in conjunction with the grand opening of the post's new home at 101 S. Main St. Saturday at 6 p.m.

The 4-foot-high concrete monument has a bronze plaque which dedicates the memorial to those who lost their lives in the service of their country.

A 55-foot-high flag pole in the center of the monument was donated by Susie Jones in memory of her husband, Warrant Officer First Grade Burley Jones.

The public is invited to attend the post's open house at 1 p.m. and the official dedication of the memorial at 6 p.m.

Congressman Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., the guest speaker, will present to the post a flag flown over the Capitol in Washington, D.C. The flag will be raised by a color guard of U.S. Marines.

A historical court of flags will be presented by Cadet Capt. Kerry Guin and cadets with narration by Col. William E. Booth of the Chino ROTC.

Other guests and participants include VFW State Commander W. C. Kelley, Pomona Mayor Ray LePire, Post 2018 Commander Mike Padilla, the Post 2018 color guard, the Post 2018 auxiliary, VFW 6th District officials, American Legion representatives, Disabled American Veterans officers, Gold Star Mothers, Navy Mothers, Women's Relief Corps, also representatives from fraternal organizations.

A buffet and entertainment by American Legion singers, Allen R. David Dance Studio, and dancing to Jim Andrews and the Music Men will follow the ceremonies.

Find newborn's body abandoned

The body of a newborn infant boy was found wrapped in a green plastic bag inside of a cardboard box in an open field near Patton Road and Milliken Avenue, Ontario police said today.

Officers said the baby died at birth.

The small body was discovered about 11:45 a.m. Tuesday by a Norwalk man looking for concrete blocks to build a patio, police said.

Norman Slegmaier, 53, told officers at the scene that while he was looking for blocks he noticed a cardboard box and opened the lid with a stick. He said he saw a green bag inside with a small opening. Inside of the green plastic bag was the body of the small infant.

According to detectives, the child still had its umbilical cord attached. The cord appeared to have been torn instead of cut. An autopsy performed by a San Bernardino County pathologist at Draper Mortuary in Ontario revealed that the baby was most likely born in breach, and the mother may have suffered a major blood loss as a result.

Detectives this morning were asking anyone who might know the whereabouts of the mother to contact the police department at 986-6711. Doctors told police that the mother, because of her blood loss could become very ill unless she seeks immediate medical attention.

Police said they were undecided if any charges would be brought against the mother.

The Coroner's Office reported that the baby had not been at the location for more than 12 hours before it was discovered.

Search on for boy, 3

INGLEWOOD (AP) — Police have begun a large-scale search for a 3½-year-old boy who disappeared from his home.

A spokesman for the Inglewood Police said Tuesday that the boy, Mica Wendell Bennett, disappeared sometime during the night Monday. They expressed concern because the youngster lives near where a five-year-old child disappeared in May.

The boy's father, Wendell Bennett, 22, reported he found Mica missing when he awoke Tuesday morning. He told officers that he and the child slept together on the floor because they did not have money to purchase beds.

Father and son arrived in Inglewood from St. Louis about a month ago.

Mica was described as 36 inches tall and weighing about 45 pounds. He was reported to be wearing blue and white pajamas.

Police said there are remarkable similarities between Mica's disappearance and that of Kevin Portis, 5, who has not been seen since disappearing from his home in May.

3 hurt in DB mishap

Three persons suffered minor injuries when a car driven by a West Covina woman slammed into the center divider on the Orange Freeway in Diamond Bar Monday night.

Highway patrolmen said the auto driven by Carol Konop, 31, crashed into the divider, south of Brea Canyon Road at 6 p.m.

Patrolmen indicated the woman saw steam coming from her car and turned off the ignition. The steering then locked, causing her to lose control of the auto.

Two small boys riding in the car, Joseph Konop, 8, and Jeffrey Konop, 5, both of 1087 Flintlock, Diamond Bar, also suffered injuries.

All three victims were taken to Brea Community Hospital. Miss Konop was reported in satisfactory condition.

Air crash victim is improving

A 33-year-old Covina man who survived a plane crash last Thursday in the mountains above La Verne was reported to be improving today at Arcadia Methodist Hospital.

Frank Nordquest was in fair condition in the intensive care unit according to a hospital spokesman.

Nordquest was rescued from a mountain slope Friday after being missing for more than 24 hours. He had left in his Cessna 150 on a pleasure flight from Brackett Field in La Verne.

The victim suffered a broken leg, multiple broken bones, and chest and head injuries in the crash.

Football TV Week topic

Coverage of the upcoming football season will be discussed in the cover story of TV Week in the Sunday Progress Bulletin.

The story deals with ABC's coverage of NFL Monday Night Football and NCAA College Football, with the NCAA game airing Sept. 9.

The inside color page will feature Yvette Mimieux in a new comedy pilot and an advance look at Neil Sedaka's first prime time Special.

Longtime San Dimas benefactor retires

Chuck Overholtzer left La Verne this week after spending half of his adult years in the service of the community.

Overholtzer, 78, and his wife, Viola, moved to Long Beach to be near their daughter, Doris Moore.

"Now, if either of us has a headache," he quipped, "she won't have to drive an hour to give us a pill."

Overholtzer, born in Pomona in 1898, is a graduate of Lordsburg Academy, the predecessor of La Verne College. He and his father joined forces in 1928 to run an insurance business which Overholtzer kept going for more than 40 years.

In the meantime, he served the city as a city clerk for 10 years, adding on the responsibility as La Verne's first city administrator in 1952.

He suffered a heart attack in 1953, and spent three years on his sailboat, but he returned to the community in 1953 to serve on the Planning Commission, 1956-60, and on the City Council, 1960-68.

He was in scouting for 26 years, and also did benefit work with the American Legion, the Red Cross and the Lions Club. When needed in those early years he also drove the Bonita High School bus.

Overholtzer says he has sold the house in which he and his wife lived for nearly 50 years, and bought a new home in Long Beach.

Red Cross needs blood donors

When the temperatures soar, the number of blood donors at local Red Cross centers declines.

But the need for blood to care for patients in local hospitals continues, a spokesman said.

During the last 12 months in Los Angeles and Orange counties hospitals served through the Los Angeles Regional Red Cross Blood Bank, 350,000 transfusions were required by patients.

This requires donations by 1,400 people during every working day.

The Pomona Red Cross Donor Center is open every Tuesday from 2 to 6:30 p.m. and every Wednesday from 1 to 5:30 p.m. Appointments are requested and may be made by calling 629-7455. The center is at 420 N. Reservoir St., Pomona.

The Satellite Blood Donor Center at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, 1798 N. Garey Ave., is open to the public every Thursday from 12:30 to 5 p.m. Appointments may be made by calling 623-8715.

Arrested

A 29-year-old Chino man was arrested for drunk driving after his station wagon slammed into the center divider on Pomona Freeway in Diamond Bar Tuesday night.

Highway patrolmen said Daniel Mares of 6122 Olvera Ct. was only slightly injured when his car hit the divider west of Golden Springs Road just before midnight.

Issues are not the issue

The Republican party is down so far in the polls that it has nowhere to go but up.

Up it will surely go, if only because Jimmy Carter, as the first candidate to be nominated, had the limelight to himself for a month between the Democratic and Republican conventions. Everybody loves a winner, and he was the only winner around for a while. The question is whether the Republicans will be able to ascend all the way to victory in November, or even close to it.

Many in the Ford camp are no doubt reminding themselves of the surprise Harry S. Truman pulled off back in 1948, when he was virtually the only man in the country who thought he could beat Thomas E. Dewey — although the spunky Missourian was never as overwhelmingly outclassed in the pre-election polls as Gerald Ford has been thus far.

Truman was also an unelected president seeking a mandate in his own right. Truman had the "do-nothing" Republican 80th Congress to run against; Ford has the "do-too-much" Democratic 94th Congress. Both faced challengers who were state governors and had never been associated with the Washington establishment and who vowed to a disenchanted public to restore responsible leadership to the national government.

The comparison should not be carried too far, however. Ford is no Truman, neither is Carter a complacent Dewey, and there are other differences between the candidates, the issues and the parties of 1976 and those of 1948.

Yet with the nation at peace, with the economy fairly prospering and looking better all the time and with no great, looming domestic or foreign crises, the outcome may well hinge less on these differences than on the images the two contenders project to the public, even as it did in 1948.

Thus Ford's apparently last-minute insertion in his acceptance speech of a challenge to meet Carter in debate may have been a well-advised move.

Using the historic Nixon-Kennedy debates as a guide, this would appear at first blush to be offering the unfamiliar newcomer an advantage. But the unsparkling Gerald Ford needs nothing so much as a new image, and if he can keep the one he showed in Kansas City — snappy, hard-hitting, confident, articulate — he has more to gain than to lose in a side-by-side appearance with his challenger.

The voters may be rewarded with no new enlightenment on the issues, but they would certainly be better able to compare the personalities of the two men, and that, it must sadly be admitted, is usually what counts more than the issues, whatever they are.

This is assuming, of course, that a debate or debates could be arranged (it would require an act of Congress to suspend television's equal-time rule) and that they would not just be carefully structured press conferences.

We can ignore the vice-presidential sideshow, despite the fact that some commentators have suggested that in choosing Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, Ford has traded off any chance of carrying the South in favor of an aggressive infighter who will harry the Democrats while he keeps to the "high road." We recall no presidential candidate who was ever defeated because of, but many who were elected in spite of, his running mate.

Beyond all the images and personalities, however, what it seems to come down to is this: Is there really a conservative, anti-big-government trend abroad in the land, or is that just so much noise from an electorate which says one thing outside the voting booth and does another inside?

At this stage, Jimmy Carter, as a nonestablishment, quasi-conservative who is at the same time the leader of the party identified with liberalism and progressivism, has the best of both worlds, and the polls may, in fact, have already told us the winner in November.

Think on these things

People are like music — one is sweet and pleasant and another has a sour sound, and still another is ditty. There's ragtime and serenade and even the mourning song — and there's a person to match each one. Who hasn't thought of clowns with the sound of circus music or someone dear when there is harmonious music?

We each have a tone, a pitch, a timbre, that distinguishes us from another. And very often we get out of tune, first with ourselves and eventually with others. We like to think that others caused it, but when we are in harmony with ourselves there is very little that can strike a wrong note. The music of the spheres must begin within us.

Thought

And he said to them, "Why are you afraid, O men of little faith?" Then he rose and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm. — Matthew 8:26.

"Belief is truth held in the mind: faith is a fire in the heart." — Joseph Fort Newton, American clergyman.

Reassessing our priorities

Dear Editor:

I have just read the article from Thursday's, August 26, Progress Bulletin entitled "Washington bill goes to Senate". Mind you, I got a real chuckle out of it, but this piece of news also made me wonder what kind of clowns are running this country. The bill is to make George Washington a general, possibly a six-star general, "of the armies of the United States as of last July 4" rather than a lieutenant general, equivalent to a three-star general now, which was his rank after his command of the revolutionary forces and the highest rank in the country 200 years ago.

Good grief, the man's been dead for almost 177 years! Do the good people of Congress think that with this promotion Washington will rise out of the grave to lead us all to health, wealth, and prosperity? Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., who is the bill's chief sponsor, "offered the proposal 'in the spirit of the bicentennial' ". Fine and great, but July 4, 1976, has come and gone. We have made the 200 years.

Now it is time to get busy and try to solve the present problems. Of course, maybe unemployment is of no concern of the Congress; after all the Congresspersons are all working (have jobs, I should say) with more than adequate salaries. Maybe taxes do not boggle their minds, after all they have made their own tax loop holes.

Maybe crime does not exist in their world — how wonderful: Maybe education is no problem for them since they are all supposed to be educated people and their children are sent (not bussed) to some private school which is relatively free from the problems which face our school systems today. Maybe defense, war, foreign policy, economics, etc. are topics which are stuffed in a dark pigeon hole in the recess of some musty smelling room only to be brought out and discussed if nothing else is available.

The list of problems which exist in this country is great and long, so you cannot tell me that Congress has nothing better to do than sit on its thumbs and decide whether to make George Washington a six-star general or not. My husband works very hard for us for a living, and I hate to think that the taxes we pay go for such waste and trivia as this. I think Congress had better reassess the priorities of the things to be taken care of and problems to be solved or this country will never make 2076!

Commerce aids Arab boycott

WASHINGTON — Government officials have been pointing out loopholes in the law to business tycoons who, for the sake of the petrodollar, wish to comply with the Arab boycott of companies doing business with Israel.

The Commerce Dept., of course, is supposed to uphold the anti-boycott law. But behind the scenes, its officials have advised business leaders how to get around the law and still support the Arab boycott.

The problem came up at a secret meeting last March of the Business International Roundtable, one of the most powerful business groups in the United States. The meeting was attended by 80 of the nation's top business executives.

Commerce officials cheerfully instructed them how to boycott Jewish companies without getting prosecuted. Under the law, business firms are required to notify the Commerce Dept. of any requests from Arab governments to participate in the boycott. The companies are also supposed to report whether they intended to comply with the boycott requests.

Yet a confidential memo, summarizing what happened at the meeting, indicates that the Commerce Dept. is more interested in promoting Arab-American business than in stopping the discrimination. The memo, raising a technicality, notes that "neither the law nor the regulations forbid companies to comply — unless doing so would discriminate against U.S. citizens or companies."

The implication is that companies can support the boycott, strictly speaking, if they can find some way to justify it. The memo also suggests slyly that the companies might even avoid reporting boycott requests in the first place.

"The Commerce Department representative expressed the view that the regulations say only that the U.S. exporter must report the receipt of a boycott request," states the memo. "Thus if a U.S. company's foreign affiliate receives a boycott request and does not report it to the U.S. parent, the U.S. parent is not expected to report the request to the Commerce Department."

In other words, all the companies need to do is deal with the Arab governments through foreign affiliates. This is spelled out in more detail in the confidential memo, with emphasis on these points:

— "Transact business with Arab nations through subsidiaries abroad," the memo stresses, "since these subsidiaries are apparently not covered by Commerce Department filing requirements."

— Business firms can also avoid the law simply by selling "to the Arab market through middlemen." The memo specifically suggests using "trading houses."

— As another strategem, the memo recommends using an Arab insurance company to insure U.S. shipments. "This can eliminate any request to fill out (boycott) questionnaires or certified documents," the memo poirts out.

— "Solicit the support of Arab purchasers to eliminate or rephrase questions in the boycott documentation," it is also suggested, "so that the answers either comply with U.S. laws or do not have to be filed with the Commerce Department."

— Some companies have been able to satisfy the Arab nations, the memo adds, by certifying that exported goods are "made in the U.S.A." Thus the companies can comply technically with the anti-Israel boycott without using the more objectionable phrase, "not of Israeli origin."

The memo, which doesn't mention the moral implications of the boycott, closes with this admonition: "Companies (should) weigh the advantages of complying with the boycott demands against the possible disadvantages such compliance might bring in the U.S. domestic market from groups opposed to the boycott."

Footnote: Congress is now working on legislation to stiffen the anti-boycott regulations. Rep. James Scheuer, D.-N.Y., has asked Rep. John Moss, D.-Calif., to investigate how the boycott is operating. The findings should be made public later this week.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: At the end of a grueling day, President Ford takes a plunge in the White House pool to relieve the tensions. He usually manages to get into the pool about 8 p.m., but sometimes he doesn't make it until late at night.

Reeding, righting and rithmatick

In our nation's public school classrooms, teacher-student ratios are improved; there's less overcrowding.

Teachers are better educated and better paid than ever before.

New buildings place modern facilities within reach of every American child.

Expenditures per student have doubled.

Our nation now has better schools, better educators and poorer education.

What's the matter?

You've seen the college board scores. Dismal.

You've seen the results of an assortment of achievement tests confirming that a greater than ever before percentage of today's high school graduates cannot read, write or perform fundamental mathematics.

The defense of some educators is to attack the testing system, insisting that most talents and qualities are not measurable by "testing."

That's a cop-out, of course.

If the educational establishment elects to hide its eyes from the accumulating evidence, it may be because it recognizes its own share of responsibility for what's happening.

Too many teachers have let themselves become lazy.

A recent Hudson Institute Study revealed many teachers no longer require as much homework because it is too much work for them to correct and/or grade it. Discussion sessions are much easier than prepared lessons. This appears to be a special weakness of younger teachers, who are less experienced and less motivated than their predecessors.

Some teachers will respond that if they try to uphold strict standards — or even ordinary discipline — they get no support from timid school administrators.

Nor are some of the classroom-centered comedy programs on television any help in maintaining decorum.

When the goof-offs in Kotter's classroom are lionized, that tends to set the standard for real-life classroom conduct.

Frank Armbruster, who headed the Hudson Study, says, "When it takes 10 minutes to quiet a classroom, that much less time is available for teaching."

Armbruster, seeking to place the blame for academic erosion, indicts team teaching, busing, automatic promotion. He lambasts ethnic studies, including so-called "Black English."

And he says we have tended to institute as "relevant courses" some of the least relevant nonsense — at the neglect of legitimate, established standards, institutions and authority.

He claims that while the educational establishment continues to adventure, there is overwhelming public support for teaching basic reading skills and respect for authority and stricter school discipline and for paying teachers on the basis of performance — rather than tenure.

The Los Angeles Board of Education is going to try, with the class of 1979, to turn back. As of next year, no high school diploma for anybody who can't read — at least well enough to understand labels, traffic signs, want ads and the TV Guide.

Even Kotter will appreciate that.

Just in jest

Snobbish super-salesmen who deal in big ticket items have at times been known to point out somewhat patronizingly, "If you have to ask the price, you can't afford it." So, just in case you have been wondering whether or not you can afford a Rolls-Royce automobile, perhaps I can save you the embarrassment of asking. — First, I am sure you will be happy to learn that the economy model can be purchased for a mere $37,000. From there you can let your conscience and your bank balance be your guide all the way up to $90,000, which is what you will have to pay for the top of the line.

It may also interest you to learn that Rolls-Royce sales are now at an all time high — most of them being purchased by Americans. And a good thing too! The way the English pound has been plummeting lately, that sort of American financial support might be just what is needed to make certain there will always be an England.

State debts grow and grow

By EARL G. WATERS

Somewhere buried in the mass of figures comprising this year's state budget, which exceeded $12 billion, were appropriations from the general fund totalling more than $250 million. That money neither paid any salaries nor provided any services for the people. It did nothing to relieve unemployment or help those in need. It was simply to pay interest on the $6 billion bonded indebtedness of the state.

Yet that interest represents a sum greater than the total state budget back in the administration of Gov. Culbert L. Olson which provoked the formation of the long remembered "economy bloc" in the Legislature.

Shortly thereafter WW II broke out, catapulting the state into an era of prosperity. Despite temporary setbacks in the economy ever since. Even by the end of the war the state, which shortly before had been issuing warrants in lieu of cash, had accumulated more than a billion dollars in surpluses.

At the time Olson took office in 1939 the state was almost without any bonded indebtedness. Aside from the bonds issued to finance veteran home loans, a program which was then and always fully paid by the home purchasers, the only outstanding bonds were a few million in highway and harbor bonds issued years before. They had not been paid because they were 50 year non-callable bonds.

Ironically, it was Gov. Earl Warren, who had preached "pay-as-you-go", that launched the state into bonded indebtedness with his support of state bond issues to aid local school construction. Starting from that time the state had floated more than $2 billion for school building aid alone.

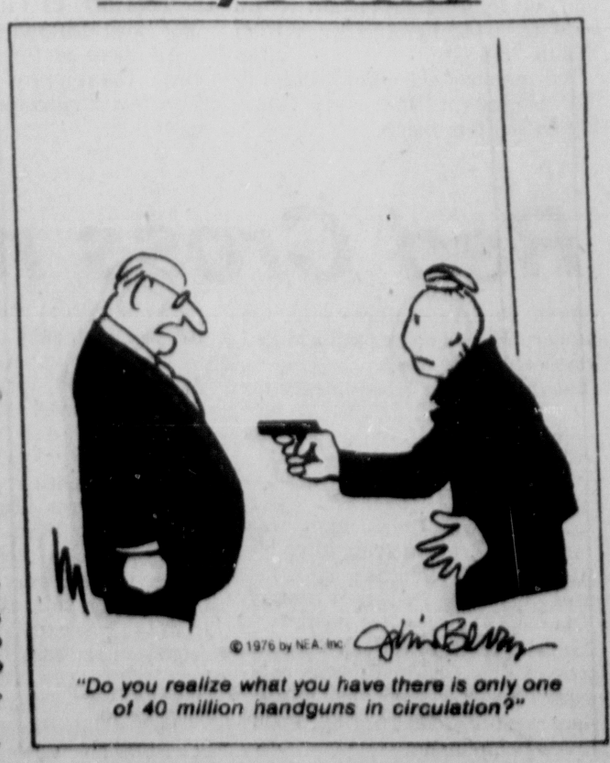

The prosperity which filled the state's treasury also enriched local government. Yet they too have been spending vastly greater sums than they receive and have incurred bonded debts of near $10 billion. This in the face of ever growing subsidies from both the state and federal governments. In addition, local governments have sunk further into financial difficulties through lease purchases and unfunded pension programs.

If the paradox of increasing government debt in time of great prosperity seems inexplicable one must look to the split views of the officials and economists for the answer. There is a strong school which believes the burden for capital outlay should not fall upon the present taxpayers but should spread over the future who will also benefit. There is also the belief that it is cheaper to borrow to acquire and build than to defer and pay higher prices for land and construction. They also oppose paying off past obligations obtained at lower rates of interest than now exist or can be expected in the future.

Most of such thinking reflects sound business principles but it ignores one thing basic in government. That is that when surpluses exist in the treasury the temptation to spend is irresistable. And, unfortunately, the spending usually involves perpetual commitments to new programs. Because of those pressures for new or enriched programs, the debts continue to grow. With the state already in debt $6 billion, another near $2 billion has been authorized but not yet sold.

As the year began it was estimated that the state would have more than $800 million in surplus. Had that money been used for the program for which the unsold bonds are intended, the need for most of those which are not self-liquidating could have been avoided. Or had it been earmarked for those things which will be financed by the bonds which will be requested of the voters this November there would have been no reason for the bond proposals on the ballot.

Membership in club received

Last January I bought a Steve Austin Six Million Dollar Man doll for my young nephew in England.

Enclosed with the doll was an invitation to become a member of the Bionic Action Club.

I sent the required 50 cents with my nephew's name and address along with a letter informing the club that I would provide additional postage if needed or, if the club people preferred, would send the membership overseas from my address.

I received the canceled check for the 50 cents a few days later and naturally assumed the membership would arrive at one address or the other within a few weeks.

Neither my nephew nor I have received anything. I wrote questioning the delay some months ago, repeating the directions.

My nephew is crazy about Steve Austin and very disappointed and puzzled that he has not gotten a Bionic Club membership.

We may be able to accept or expect business ineptitude such as this but children cannot. — Mrs. R.B., San Dimas.

You wrote us another letter a week later saying that, incredibly, you had just received word from your sister in England letting you know the membership had finally arrived.

You indicated that we need not act on your problem. We already had. When we told you so, you said that must be the reason you had just received another invitation to become a Bionic Club member.

The next day we received confirmation of this from Alice Akins of the American Advertising Service Fulfillment Agency for the Bionic Action Club.

This brings you right back where you started. Philosophically, you plan to send another 50 cents to obtain a membership for another child. We are thinking about renaming this column Bionic Action Line.

Last spring I wrote asking you to try to find out some information about the descendants of my great-aunt, Mrs. Abbye Joos.

Through your paper I have found her granddaughter, Dorothy Abigail Joos of Visalia.

She has written that Aunt Abbye had a daughter, Flora, who had several descendants. She gave their names and the states in which they lived.

I can never thank you enough for helping my family and me get in touch with relatives we had lost track of. — Mrs. Paul E. Strate, Kingfisher, Okla.

Your request brought in several phone calls and letters from long-time residents who remembered members of the Joos family living in Pomona after your great-aunt arrived here in 1903.

With your current letter you sent us snapshots you had found of your great-aunt and other members of the family after your first letter.

You also sent an election campaign card showing that Abbye's son, John William Joos, ran for the office of Los Angeles County assessor in 1930. He wasn't elected but earlier he was assistant district attorney for several years.

For Thursday, Sept. 2, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You know what needs to be done today, but you'll expend only a portion of your talents in doing it. Consequently, your reward will be small.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't be upset with subordinates today because they're not producing as you feel they should. Possibly it will be because of your example.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Gambling on the unknown today will prove to be a costly folly. It's best to believe only what you can grasp in mind or hand.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your spirit is willing today but the flesh is woefully weak. It's unlikely you'll exhibit the resolve to overcome a tough problem.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a tendency today to start projects you're not apt to finish. A cluttered-up workroom will probably result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't expect too much from people you know only as passing acquaintances today. There's no substitute for tested friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is apt to be friction in your household today, but don't seek to place the blame on others. It could be your oar that's troubling the waters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Crystal gazing for trouble that might happen is the way of fortune tellers. Keep your cool. Attack problems when they occur.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't seek scapegoats today for foul-ups that can be directly attributed to you. Everyone will know who the real culprit is.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The least effective weapon you could use today is intimidation of underlings. Just remember: Every dog has his day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're disturbed about something today, don't stew about it silently. The only way to get relief is to bring the matter into the open.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try not to badger pals over picayune issues today. It's far better to strengthen bonds of friendship than to weaken them.

Your Birthday, Sept. 2, 1976

This year should be an exciting one for you. You'll be both adventurous and enterprising. Don't let your boldness exceed your good sense, however.

More about hairy women

Dear Ann Landers: I was disturbed by your regressive and insipid advice to the hairy lady whose husband insisted she shave her legs and armpits before donning her swimsuit. Our culture is screwed up, not the lady. Hair removal is NOT the answer. Education is.

You have done a disservice to your readers by not pointing out that this practice of self-mutilation is not only demeaning, but downright anti-erotic.

I'm a middle-aged man, happily married, and unashamedly confess I am turned on by the unshaven good-looks of women. The females must be perpetuating this silly practice of hair removal, because I have yet to meet a man who doesn't think a woman's hairy legs and armpits are sexy.

Shaving is a nuisance. It's up to each and every woman to decide for herself whether or not she wants to do it. For those who don't, I hope this letter will give them the courage to combat criticism. — I Like Hair

Dear I.L.H.: American women with hairy armpits and legs will need more than courage. I can't imagine a less appetizing sight.

Granted, shaving is a nuisance, but it's one of the more rewarding things a woman can do to help herself look feminine and attractive. You've stated your opinion. This is mine.

Dear Ann: May I comment on the letter from the 62-year-old man who kept up the lawn, shoveled the snow and did errands for an 80-year-old neighbor lady? (She happened to be his mother-in-law.) Her own son lived right next door, but he never lifted a finger to help. It figures.

Sons help their mothers-in-laws while sons-in-law help their wives' mothers.

This works out just dandy, except for those of us who didn't happen to give birth to daughters — like me.

I raised five boys and every single one has turned his back on me and taken up with his in-laws. Count me among the 70 per cent who, if they had it to do over again, would NOT have had children. — Ignored In San Jose

Dear Ignored: The situation you describe is not uncommon, although it sometimes works in reverse.

Here's a poem I learned from my mother many years ago (she had four daughters):

A son is a son until he takes a wife.
A daughter is a daughter all of her life.

Dear Ann Landers: This isn't a problem. It's a statement to all you dieters out there:

When I entertain I will gladly provide for people who are serious about following diabetic, low-sodium, low-cal, high-fiber, low-cholesterol or high-protein diets. But for you chronic weight-weatchers who have been yo-yoing up and down for 20 years — lost and put back hundreds of pounds — please don't accept an invitation to my home for dinner and tell me the reason you aren't hungry is because you gorged yourself the day before on a lot of junk. — Cater Hater

Dear Cater: I don't know about your friends, but I pace myself. When I know I'm going to an elegant dinner party on Saturday, I go easy on Friday. The greatest compliment you can pay a hostess is to eat, eat, eat.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

What's new in New Year's?

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

For some ridiculous reason, to which, however, I've no desire to be disloyal, some person in authority, I don't know who, very likely the Astronomer Royal, has decreed that Jan. 1 will be the start of the new year. Our calendar, a mish-mash of astronomy, history and mythology, is a mess. Maybe Jan. 1 was chosen as New Year's Day because that's the day of the Rose Bowl game.

But it's a rotten day to start a new year. It's too close to Christmas; in many parts of the country it's a time of snow and slush; it's too early for spring flowers and too late for fall festivals.

The first day of September, however, is an ideal time to start the new year. In the north the leaves are changing color; there's a tang in the air, a crispness. The frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock.

For the average citizen, summer vacation has ended and he returns to his work bright-eyed, bronzed and broke. Mother buys new lunch boxes, and the kids start back to school. It is a time of reawakening and renewal, a fresh start on another year. The bird is on the wing, and the sound of the football is heard through the land.

Now the community gathers again after vacations at the beach and the mountains. Old friends greet each other and show slides of their trip to Europe. Restaurants and theaters, closed during the summer, reopen to good business. The colleges start up again, new car models are introduced, and TV reruns begin to run down. It is a time of vitality and excitement as the nation contemplates the World Series, the start of football season, and property taxes.

For youngsters there is the thrill of school again, of romping at recess and pitching erasers at the teachers. For teenagers there are football rallies, sock hops, the class play, and visits to the probation officer. There are new challenges for Dad (like how to hang on to his job) and Mother goes back to laundry, dishes and the PTA.

In autumn the nights grow shorter. There are no more late afternoon sets of tennis or rounds of golf. The patio furniture is relegated to the cellar for another year. Rains dampen heath and hedgerow. The fall of the year is a whole new ball game.

The selection of New Year's Day is purely arbitrary — the Chinese, Egyptian, Jewish, Roman and Mohammedan years all begin at different times. Why then should OUR new year begin amid snow and ice, a few days after our Christmas orgy, when we're all hungover and broke? On Jan. 1 the world is dead; on Sept. 1 it is just coming to life.

Janus, the Roman god of gates and doors and beginnings and endings, was named after the month January, but that is no reason for us to hold to the ancient tradition.

I, for one, will celebrate New Year's Day today. I will wear a paper hat, blow a horn and throw confetti. I'll kiss all the pretty girls and drink champagne, and tomorrow I'll start my list of New Year's resolutions.

Dr. Lamb

Doctor doesn't advise fast

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 16-year-old healthy girl. I have been 20 pounds overweight for about five years. Three years ago I lost 20 pounds but gained it back within the year. I've read that fasting is a good way to change one's attitude about eating. I would like to try a three-day fast, but because of school my mother won't let me. She fears it will endanger my health. For physical education I have Yoga so I don't have to worry about rapid movements. Could you give me some information on fasting that could help me, and maybe change my mother's mind?

DEAR READER — You have come to the wrong place to get help in your discussion with your mother about fasting. I am inclined to think this is a case of "Mother knows best."

I don't think a healthy person, as you state you are, will come to some bad end by fasting three days. Many people have fasted longer when emergency situations have demanded it. But it is a poor way to try to lose weight. In three days time of eathing nothing you are not likely to lose more than about one and a half pounds of fat. All the rest of the loss will be important muscle mass and lots of water. The water will come right back.

Terrance MacSwiney, the Mayor of Cork in 1920, fasted 74 days before he died from it. In 1963 a pilot and his passenger survived six weeks without food.

When you fast or when you eliminate all or almost all of the carbohydrates the kidneys wash out a lot of sodium. With the sodium washout goes a lot of water. The dieting victim jumps on the scales and says, "Presto! I have lost five pounds in one day." He might as well have taken a water pill and flushed out normal body water.

The water and salt loss results in weakenss if continued. By the middle of the second day, if you fast that long, you will most likely feel very tired and may have a headache. The loss of water will make you much more susceptible to fainting. Water loss from anything, including bed rest or such far out activities as space flight will do this to you also.

The body chemistry will change you and you will lose your appetite in about two days. The chemical change results from the incomplete utilization of fat. The body metabolic machinery is literally overloaded with your own fat and this causes "ketosis" or "acidosis."

I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-2, Low Carbohydrate Diet Fads, to give you a better understanding of this problem. I hope this will help keep you from doing unhealthy things to your body. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Send your letter to me in care of Progress Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

There is still another reason why a fast will not help you. Most people who lose weight with such gimmicks usually regain it. In your case you admit you regained your fat within a year.

Might I suggest a sensible well balanced diet plan that you can live with the rest of your life coupled with an increase in your physical fitness activity. It could do wonders for you to develop the kind of life style you can live with the rest of your life.

Opening lead — Q ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It isn't hard to get to a slam with today's hand. South has a sound opening bid and North is looking at 17 good high-card points.

North wanted to bid six notrump. He had a notrump-type hand and everyone wants to be declarer, but finally North settled for six hearts.

It was a wise decision indeed. Six notrump is doomed to failure. In fact, six notrump might well go down two tricks.

South wasn't too happy with his six-heart contract. He studied the hand for some time and then played dummy's king of clubs. He wanted to retain the ace of clubs as an entry to his own hand. Then South went after diamonds. He cashed dummy's ace and his king, led a third diamond and ruffed with dummy's eight of hearts.

When both opponents followed everything was wine and roses. He cashed dummy's king of trumps, came to his hand with the ace of clubs, played his ace and queen of trumps, conceded a trump trick to West who had been unkind enough to hold four trumps and claimed the balance.

Suppose diamonds had broken badly. South would not have made his contract, but as stated earlier it was not a really good slam.

Ask the Jacobys

A California reader asks the old question: "Is there any law that requires a player who opens with a forcing two bid to go on to game?"

The answer is "No!" There is no law and no reason not to stop if you don't think you can make game. However, if you do stop and game makes, your partner is likely to be angry.

Old skydivers still around

A Colorado client takes issue with the claim that there are no old skydivers. Recently at Tahlequah, Okla., a 71-year-old man jumped. And on the record, too, is the skydive of an 81-year-old man whose chute malfunctioned to force said diver to make a reserve landing. "Hate to tell you this, Louis," writes this reader, "but you are what we call a "whuffo." That's somebody who looks up at skydivers and says, "Whuffo he doin' that?"

Temperature of the water at the bottom of Lake Vanda in Antarctica runs almost 80 degrees F., yet the top of that lake is covered with about a dozen feet of ice.

MALL

Q. "Why is the mall in a shopping center called a 'mall'?"

A. Originally it was the mallet used in thst outdated game called pall-mall. Then it was the alley whereon the game was played. Finally it was any public pedestrian promenade so designated to distinguish it from other paths, lanes and sidewalks.

Why more overweight men than overweight women tend to stick to their diets remains a mystery . . . . There's no trick at all in determining the blood type of an ancient Egyptian mummy . . . The Kentucky law that appeals to me is the one that forbids a woman to move the furniture in her house without her husband's okay.

DIMPLES

"What good are the dimples on a golf ball?" inquires a client. They keep said ball airborne just about twice as far as flies a ball with a smooth surface, that's what. A backspin of from 2,000 to 8,000 r.p.m. puts those 336 dimples to work. A dimpled ball, like a dimpled girl, goes farther and faster.

To aid investors, the exchange offers a free report on what to look for, when to buy, what to pay and much more, including opportunities in promising plates still at low prices.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to the Bradford Exchange, 17233 Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. To be sure of receiving your free copy, please mail your request before September 10, 1976.

Tax relief measure stalled in Assembly

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The only property tax relief measure surviving this year, a ballot proposal aimed at reducing homeowner rates, is stalled in the state Assembly.

The lower house floor sponsor, Assemblyman Dan Boatwright, D-Concord, blamed the business lobby for Monday night's 45-24 vote that stopped the measure nine votes short of the needed two-thirds majority.

Asked to explain the defeat in light of public pressure for tax relief, Boatwright said, "Are you kidding, with the way the businesses have worked these guys this last week?"

He got permission to try for another vote before the legislature's scheduled adjournment tonight.

The measure by Sen. Jerry Smith, D-Saratoga, would ask state voters to authorize a dual tax rate system for local government.

The system, if adopted by a county, would allow a lower tax rate for homes than for commercial property, which now must be taxed at the same rate.

Smith's measure wouldn't specify the new rates or include a new revenue source.

The deadline has passed for this November's ballot, so the measure, even if approved, couldn't go before the voters until at least next spring, if a special election was called.

Other property tax relief proposals, several calling for hundreds of millions of dollars in state subsidies, have been killed this year.

"This is one small step for tax equity and one giant step for preservation of home ownership," said Assemblyman Robert Cline, R-Northridge, who supported Smith's measure.

But even a number of backers were unenthusiastic, including Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, who called the measure "weak and watered-down" but better than nothing at all.

"Another two years has passed and we really didn't do anything," Kapiloff said.

He backed unsuccessful amendment proposals by Assemblyman Robert McLennan, R-Downey, to remove schools and welfare programs from the property tax burden.

McLennan said the amendments were needed to provide any substantial homeowner relief. But Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, said it would imperil school financing.

The Assembly's Democratic leaders beat back the amendment proposals before the final vote.

1 cup sugar
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ to ¾ cup finely chopped nuts
1 teaspoon soda
¾ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 eggs
¼ cup sugar

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. (Lightly spoon flour into measuring cup; level off.) In large bowl, combine first nine ingredients; stir until well blended. (Mixture will be crumbly.) Press firmly to form into 1-inch balls; roll in sugar. Place 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake 8 to 10 minutes until golden brown. Cool 1 minute; remove from cookie sheets. 4 to 5 dozen cookies.

*If using Pillsbury's Best Self Rising Flour, reduce soda to ¼ teaspoon.

Hearty Beef 'N Beans

1 lb. ground beef
¼ cup chopped green pepper
15 -oz. can (1 2/3 cups) kidney beans, undrained
8 -oz. can (1 cup) pizza or spaghetti sauce
4 -oz. can (½ cup) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1 tablespoon dry onion soup mix
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
10 -oz. can Hungry Jack Refrigerated Big Flaky Biscuits

Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Place cheese cube in center of each biscuit. Fold dough over cheese, covering completely; seal well, shaping into balls. Brush each biscuit with melted butter; sprinkle with sesame seed. Arrange cheese-filled biscuits on hot meat mixture. Bake 18 to 23 minutes until deep golden brown. Serve immediately. (Refrigerate any leftovers.) 4 to 6 servings.

TIP: Hot meat mixture may be transferred to a 12x8-inch baking dish or shallow 2-quart casserole. Top with biscuits; bake as directed.

Brush with butter; sprinkle with coconut. Bake 5 to 7 minutes. Combine sour cream and egg, set aside. Arrange peaches over baked crust. Pour sour cream mixture over peaches; sprinkle with brown sugar. Bake 22 to 25 minutes until crust is golden brown. If desired, serve warm with ice cream or whipped cream. (Refrigerate any leftovers.) 12 servings.

L.A. might drop firm over hiring practices

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles has threatened to stop buying photographic equipment from Eastman Kodak Co. within 10 days in a dispute over compliance with the city's rules on hiring women.

Kodak is the city's major supplier of photographic equipment, handling purchases worth about $100,000 a year.

Warren A. Hollier, president of the city's Board of Public Works and head of its Office of Contract Compliance, said the company has failed to comply with city affirmative action goals in the hiring of women as officials, managers and technicians.

The city says that the company should be able to hire 18.5 per cent women as officials and managers and 30 per cent as technicians if "proper recruiting methods" were used.

At present, however, only four per cent of the officials and managers are women, Hollier said. Thirty-six per cent of the technicians are women, the city said.

Kodak has an affirmative-action program, but the city has not been allowed to study it, Hollier said.

Comment from Kodak wasn't available immediately.

Navy feels its offense to be its best defense

SAN DIEGO (AP) - The best defense for the Navy is the best offense, says its chief of research, testing and evaluation.

Vice Adm. Parker B. Armstrong said in the future "torpedoes and mines will be smarter. Torpedoes will be more accurate and capable of homing in on an evading target. Mines will be planted deeper and will select and seek out targets.

"No longer can we think in terms of World War II battleships that could slug it out while 'hull down' on the horizon," Armstrong said.

"The best defense is a superior offensive capability," not limited to a fleet of so-called super ships, he said, with ships going faster with little or no hull in the water to be vulnerable to attacking submarines.

Local rent control bill before Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Local rent control ordinances would be outlawed under legislation pending on Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s desk.

The bill by Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, would give the state legislature the sole authority to impose rent control on private housing units.

It squeaked through the Senate Monday an a 21-14 vote that crossed party lines.

There is no general rent control in California now. A Berkeley law was invalidated by the courts.

The measure is AB 3788.

Small appetite

Several authenticated stories tell of land snails that lived for years without food. In the 1950s, a supposedly dead desert snail found in Egypt was mounted on a card and displayed in the British Museum. Four years later, the rare specimen crawled out of its shell. It ate cabbage leaves and resumed its suspended life.

Drought dries up governor's wife's worm supply

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The worms have turned away from Nebraska's first lady. The governor's wife says a summertime drought has dried up her personal supply of nightcrawlers for use as fishing bait.

"It's been so dry that you can't find them. I've had to resort to buying some," Pat Exon, wife of Gov. J.J. Exon, complained Monday. "I don't know where they're getting them from this summer, they must be imported."

Normally, Mrs. Exon gets all the worms she needs for her once-a-week fishing trips from her private worm garden in the fallout shelter of the governor's mansion.

She said she began cultivating the garden about three years ago because "time is so hard to come by that when I can get away, I don't have time to shop for bait.

"So I had Jim (the governor) make a box so I could raise them myself. Some of these babies take 18 months to mature," she says, "and the bigger the worm, the bigger the fish."

Mrs. Exon said she generally goes worm-hunting in her garden at night after it rains.

"Some might say it isn't fitting for a first lady to be poking around for worms, but the first ladies I know are those who do what's comfortable for them.

"I tried to reach Mary Anderson (wife of Minnesota Gov. Wendell Anderson) the other day and she was out pounding nails on an old farm they've bought," she said.

The worm project is a few doors down from the public Bicentennial exhibit of dolls depicting Nebraska's 33 first ladies. Mrs. Exon admits that the garden "gets a little smelly."

She said that when she first started growing worms, an Arkansas worm farmer told her to feed them powdered milk and cornmeal. "He also promised to send me some red worms but he hasn't done it yet," she said.

She fishes from a 10-foot aluminum boat, an anniversary gift from her husband of 33 years. "I have a friend with a pickup truck. We're able to load the boat to haul it to the lake. Every summer, five of us gals take a week off to go fishing," she said.

One of her prize catches is a trout her husband proudly displays in a picture on state highway maps.

"They wanted this picture, and he hadn't caught anything by the time he had to make an appearance," Mrs. Exon said. "I told him not to worry, I'd get him one. I did."

Naval pilots eject

RIDGECREST (AP) — Two Navy pilots and a navigator sustained only minor injuries when their planes collided over China Lake Naval Weapons Center, authorities said today.

The three ejected safely after the mid-air collision Monday night 1½ miles inside the southern boundary of the Mojave Desert base, a Naval official said.

Both planes crshed in an unocuppied area, authorities added. They were returning from night tests.

One plane, an A-6 Intruder, was piloted by Lt. Cmdr. Rodney A. Bankson of Bakersfield and carried Lt. Cmdr. Donald A. Erskine of Teaneck, N.J. as bombardier-navigator.

The other, a single-seat A-7 Corsair II, was piloted by Lt. Cmdr. Dennis V. McGinn of Attleboro, Mass.

Navy officials are investigating the cause of the crash.

Bill calling for advisory panel clears state Senate

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An advisory commission would be created to plan development of the Santa Monica Mountains in Los Angeles County under a bill winning state Senate approval.

Monday's 27-7 vote sent the measure by Assemblyman Howard Berman, D-Beverly Hills, back to the Assembly for action on Senate amendments.

The Senate's changes in the bill limited the 14-member commission to an advisory role and removed much of the opposition. An earlier version of the bill gave the commission veto power over developments.

Nevertheless, the bill got only the minimum two-thirds majority required for an appropriation measure.

The bill appropriates $200,000 for support of the commission.

It is AB 163.

Man drives car off cliff

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Police say Nathan L. Talbott, 20, apparently drove his car deliberately over a cliff and into the Pacific Ocean.

The car flipped in the air almost 60 feet over the water Saturday off Sunset Cliffs.

The coroner's office said Talbott, of nearby El Cajon, was drowned. It was listed as a suicide.

Followers of James Harrod claimed the establishment of the first permanent settlement in Kentucky, at Harrodsburg in 1775. Fort Harrod was built in 1777 and was one of three Kentucky stations that held out successfully against indian attacks during the critical early years of the War of Independence. The World Almanac recalls that George Rogers Clark was at Fort Harrod when he planned his remarkable campaign of 1778-79.

Foyt arrives and all is well

Well sir. It just wouldn't have been a race without ole A.J.

Even the thought that he might miss the first day of qualifications today cast a pall of gloom around the Ontario Motor Speedway offices.

Foyt is a mighty drawing card and his absence today would have cut the anticipated small crowd even more.

But ole A.J. didn't disappoint. True to form he kept everyone guessing. Entry fees for his two Coyotes weren't received until Tuesday morning according to a USAC official.

But you should have seen the OMS people brighten up. "Now we know he is coming," they beamed. "A.J. wouldn't pay the fees unless he was sure he could race. He doesn't spend any money he doesn't have to."

Foyt made his first appearance as soon as the track reopened after the lunch break Tuesday afternoon. From then on it was a typical Foyt show.

He'd go out a lap or two, come in, hop out of his No. 14 Foyt-powered Coyote, tell his crew members what was wrong, what had to be done and then help them do it.

He did one lap at 176 mph and the explosion registered on the Richter scale. Back to the garage went the Gilmore Racing team to replace springs and repair a radiator leak.

When he came back out, it was more of the same. A lap or two and back into the pits where car and crew were cussed and discussed.

Later in the afternoon he got up to 182.334 mph. For Foyt that is a snail's pace. A.J. got madder and the track temperature jumped another five degrees.

Back to the garage

So back into the garage went the disappointing car. Back into the garage trudged the frustrated crew. And back into the garage strode the determined Foyt.

There was more tinkering behind closed doors (Foyt does not appreciate the curious. The garage doors are buttoned up tight).

When he returned just before the track shut down, the Texan was clocked at 187.617 mph, third fastest of the day.

Ole A.J. is back and all is well! He'll be fussing, fretting, stewing, snarling, cussing and stirring up a lot of hell in general.

According to a U.S. Auto Club official, Foyt has the car he drove at Indianapolis this year ready to go here at OMS.

"It's not the one he wrecked at Trenton two weeks ago," the official said. "That was an old car. This is his newest one."

The Coyote in which A.J. won the Cal 500 last year has been relegated to backup status.

Last year Foyt dominated the field from the first day he arrived here. He was the fastest in practice. His 196.687 was four miles an hour faster than anyone else.

He qualified only slightly slower, 196.549, to win the pole position. Last year the Twin 100's were also part of the qualifying and A.J. spreadeagled the field in a fog-delayed, yellow flag dominated race.

He continued to run away from the field in the Cal 500. "Super Tex" not only won. He led 188 of the 200 laps.

May not dominate

His late start and the 100 degree temperatures that have prevailed so far, may prevent that this year.

But, barring mechanical problems, he'll still be favored to become the first driver to win the Cal 500 a second time. No one yet has won it twice.

HERE 'N THERE — Bad luck continues to plague Al Unser. Forced to go to his backup car after smashing his number one car Monday, Unser blew another Cosworth engine.

Ironically, he was slated to be the first to attempt to qualify today.

Also ironically, Janet Guthrie, who has yet to get up to racing speeds, was scheduled to be second. Johnny Rutherford drew the 20th spot. Foyt was 25th.

Rutherford has run the fastest every day. Tuesday it was 188.838 mph.

Only other driver to top 188 was Tom Sneva in his No. 68 McLaren Offy. In another touch of irony, Sneva has only the one engine available for his car.

Sheva is easily recognizable. He's the guy that keeps all his fingers crossed no matter what he's doing!

Jerry Grant got up to 186.637 in his stock-block powered Eagle.

AMATEUR ACTION

Nolan Ryan fans 2,000th

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — Nolan Ryan got the 2,000th strikeout of his career Tuesday night. But he'd rather have had his rhythm.

"I was tired from the time I warmed up," he said. I don't know if it was the heat or what. I just went out there intending to move the ball around. My control was good or I don't think I'd have gotten through (nine innings)."

The fireballer moved the ball around all right . . . just as he usually does. He threw 153 pitches. But 97 of them were strikes which, for him, was a good ratio.

Altogether Ryan stuck out 11 Detroit Tigers in a 6-3 Angel win. It was the ninth time this year he fanned 10 or more in a game and the 80th time of his amazing career.

He now has struck out 252 batters this season and leads the major leagues in that department. His career total is 2,010 and he is the 29th pitcher in major league history to do it.

Naturally, Ryan was asked what the achievement meant to him.

"Nothin'," he replied softly. I'm too disgusted with the way I pitched. I didn't have any rhythm again. But the fans have really supported us.

"I'm just glad anytime I accomplish anything in Anaheim Stadium."

A scribe reminded Ryan that he could still have another 300 strikeout season.

"That doesn't seem very impressive with my record (11-17)," the slim Texan replied. "I could end up 12-20 the way I've been pitching. So 300 strikeouts doesn't speak much for my ability."

Despite his star-studded strikeout performances, Ryan's lifetime won-loss record is an unimpressive 116-115.

Ryan may have been tired because he threw batting practice Monday night, something he would never do the night before he pitches.

He was originally scheduled to pitch tonight with Frank Tanana facing the Tigers Tuesday night. But the assignments were switched and Ryan didn't find out about it until after he had pitched batting practice.

Ryan got number 2,000 on the very first Detroit batter, Ron LeFlore, and actually struck out the side in the first inning although giving up a double to Ben Oglivie.

LeFlore, a .319 hitter, fanned four times in the game.

The Halo hitting heroes were Dave Collins with two singles, a double and two more stolen bases (his 23rd and 24th). Terry Humphrey singled in a pair of runs and Rusty Torres doubled in two.

Tony Solaita knocked his seventh home run and Jerry Remy singled in Collins. Bill Melton got his 17th double.

Bob Jones helped the Tigers get their three runs, all in the sixth inning. Back-to-back shots down the right field line completely evaded Jones.

He looked like a man with a bushel basket trying to capture a rabbit.

ANGEL ANGLES — It'll be Tanana (14-9) vs. Dave Roberts (12-13) in a battle of lefthanders tonight as the two teams meet for the last time this season.

Under Norm Sherry, the Angels now are 19-17.

Melton has been swinging the bat well according to Sherry and will stay in the lineup at third base. Touted rookie Ron Jackson, with 64 more times at bat, has fewer runs batted in and extra base hits and has slumped to .212.

Another Angel "pheenom," Willie Mays Aikens, has been named outstanding player in the organization. A t El Paso (Texas League), Aikens is currently batting .321 with 29 home runs and 110 runs batted in.

Canadian Cowan has experience

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It's an overworked word, but 'experience' is going to have an awful lot to do with who wins here," declared Canadian Gary Cowan, embarking on a quest for a third United States Amateur golf championship.

Cowan, 37, from Kitchener, Ontario, captured the U. S. national championship in both 1966 and 1972 and became the first foreigner to win the title since his countryman Sandy Somerville did it in 1932.

He admits he'd prefer it if the U. S. Amateur were still a medal play tournament as it was when he won, but after winning his opening match without losing a hole, he said, "I probably have a better chance of winning on this type of golf course."

Bel-Air, scene of this 76th championship event, proved itself demanding on opening day and will continue to do so through the 36-hole finals on Sunday.

"This is what you call a thinking golf course, you can't just go out and whale the ball," Cowan commented after whipping Dave Richards of Chambersburg, Pa., 7 and 6 in their 18-hole match.

Today he meets O. Gordon Brewer of Huntington Valley, Pa., who was one of 56 among the 200 qualifiers to draw a bye on opening Tuesday.

Also with a bye was defending champion Fred Ridley of Winter Haven, Fla., who opens his defense against Mike Stoll of Beaverton, Ore., a 2-1 winner over Mark Curlett of Coatsville, Pa.

"I played this course on Sunday and Monday, so, in a way, I was happy to play in the first round and not have a bye," said Cowan referring to the added experience. Asked why he hadn't played in recent U. S. Amateurs, he answered:

"In 1971, I decided to spend more time with the family and business and I did it."

Temperatures soared to 100 degrees and more hot weather can be expected the rest of the week. British Amateur champion Dick Siderowf of Westport, Conn., hopes his own game heats up.

He shot only an 82 but eliminated Mark Barge of Fargo, N. D., one-up with a par four on the day's final hole. A triple bogey and double bogey showed on the Siderowf card.

"I was pretty lucky to get away," he admitted readily. "You hit your ball into the bus on this course and you just can't get the green in par. You might get just one round like I had and then either you'll be going home or playing better."

Today in one of the feature matches, he meets Julius Boros, Jr., of Miami Beach, Fla., son of the two-time U. S. Open champion.

Bel-Air plays at 6,507 yards with a par 72.

In the opening day's biggest upset, Vinny Giles of Richmond, Va., a seasoned amateur, fell to 22-year-old Don Reese of West River, Mich., who played his collegiate golf at Troy State in Alabama.

Don Reece dropped a seven-foot birdie putt to win after two extra holes.

McElreath, 1970 OMS victor, scrambling for ride in '76

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — Seven years ago, shy, soft-spoken Jim McElreath rode to the biggest victory of his career, in the inaugural California 500, driving a backup car for A.J. Foyt.

The 48-year-old journeyman driver from Texas hasn't won a race on the Indianapolis car circuit since then, and although his driving talents are considerable and well recognized, he's had to scramble for rides ever since.

He missed the 1972 race completely, and he's never really been in a car as good as the Foyt car he won with.

A good measure of McElreath's dilemma can probably be laid to his shyness, his reluctance to beat the drum for himself; he goes to tremendous lengths to avoid press interviews.

McElreath, a six-time finisher in the top six over 11 Indianapolis 500 appearances, most likely will be a spectator for Sunday's seventh annual California 500. If he is, he'll be the only active former winner without a ride.

He was a lonely figure Tuesday at the speedway, stumping the garage area for a prospective ride. He spent part of the day in front of Foyt's garage where Foyt's present backup car—as capable as his frontline machine of winning Sunday — was housed.

"Might as well start at the top," McElreath said of his jobhunting. Foyt didn't offer much encouragement.

Foyt last year offered his backup car to 1971 winner Joe Leonard, who was crippled by a 1974 crash at Ontario Motor Speedway. Leonard, with an injured ankle, couldn't pass a driver's physical.

Leonard hasn't been back since then. In fact, he's now suing his former racing team for negligence in his crash. That action effectively ended his racing career.

"Nobody is going to hire a driver who is likely to turn around and sue them," said one observer.

McElreath's chances of finding a ride will probably be best Thursday, the last of two days of qualifying.

"Some frantic car owner, whose driver can't come up with enough speed, will come running up to Jim five minutes before the end of qualifying and beg him to get his car in the show," said the observer. "Jim will dash off to find a driving suit, take two laps of practice, and put the car in the field.

"He did that in 1974 at Indy when he finished sixth. You can look it up."

Most everyone so far in practice for the $314,000 Indianapolis style racing Triple Crown event has been having trouble finding enough speed.

"It's the heat," said Johnny Rutherford, who had the fastest speed through three days of practice, at 188.838 miles per hour.

Dodgers beat Expos again but can't gain on Cincy

MONTREAL (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, backed by seven-hit pitching from Doug Rau and Charlie Hough, defeated the Montreal Expos 5-1, but even at that they couldn't cut further into the West Division lead of the Cincinnati Reds.

The Dodgers, in control of the game all the way Tuesday night, looked as if they might narrow Cincinnati's margin, but the Reds rallied for a 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals to keep their 8½-game lead atop the West.

"I don't know how to answer that question," said Walter Alston, the venerable Dodger manager, when asked how he rated his club's chances of overtaking the Reds.

"We've got a pretty good little streak going right now, and I just hope we can continue it."

The Dodgers are trailing on the basis of their performance within their own division. They are 74-56 over-all but have a 26-34 mark against West teams. Only a 48-22 log against the East is keeping them in any kind of contention.

"When we won the pennant in 1974, we were 12-6 against the Reds," Alston recalled, "and last year we were 10-8 when they won. This year we're something like 2-10."

That eight-game gap constitutes virtually all of the margin the Reds enjoy.

The Dodgers rapped Montreal starter Woodie Fryman, 10-10, for the only two runs they needed in the first inning on a double by Bill Russell after leadoff singles by Dave Lopes and Bill Buckner.

Andre Thornton nicked Rau, 13-10, for a pinch-hit home run, his 11th of year, in the seventh to make it 2-1 before the Dodgers added three runs in the final two innings.

Hough, who gave up the final Expos' hit in pitching the last two innings, registered his 11th save.

The teams meet tonigh' in the second game of a threegame series with Don Sutton, 16-9, facing Montreal's Steve Dunning, 2-5.

U.S. baseballers look sharp

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

Joy has returned to "Mudd-ville"! No, the mighty Casey will not get another chance at bat, but fan enthusiasm has heightened once again with the arrival of the 1976 United States All-Star Amateur Baseball Team.

The 18-man squad of players, who will represent the U.S. in the First Asian Invitational Tournament in Taipaei, Taiwan, is holding public practices on the Claremont-Mudd baseball diamond.

Now just to orient you, the Stars will have workout sessions on Thursday at 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. and again on Saturday at 5 p.m.

The team is set to play a seven-inning game with the California Angels' farmhands from Idaho Falls and Quad Cities on Sunday at Anaheim Stadium following the Angels and Oakland A's contest at 1 p.m.

Their final game prior to embarking will be on Monday at 5 p.m. at Ontario's John Galvin Park against the Pomona Valley All-Stars.

The head coach of the Amateurs is Dr. Joe Record of Phillips University, who has three knowledgeable baseball assistants working under him. The coaches are Dr. Bill Arce, athletic director and baseball coach at Claremond-Mudd, Joe Russo of St. Johns University, New York, and Bill Griffin of Panola JC.

How was Claremont-Mudd's baseball field chosen as the practice spot for the All-Stars? Well, according to Record, "We knew that we would be departing from the West Coast. Bill Arce volunteered to take the brunt of hosting us and took care of all the details. We feel the arrangements here in Claremont are excellent."

Departing on Sept. 7 from Los Angeles for a 20-day Far East tour, the Amateurs plan to play a four-game schedule as a goodwill mission in South Korea before taking part in the Asian Tournament.

Coach Record was an assistant coach with the U.S. team of 1973 when it traveled to Nicaragua and was crowned champion.

"Comparing this club with the 1973 team, I would say that this is probably the best U.S. team personnel-wise that we've had," Record said.

The head coach continued, "Maybe the only exception to that would be that we might not have a stopper or top-rate pitcher, but overall we have better depth with our pitchers."

Coach Arce, who was involved with the 1970 U.S. team and will serve primarily as the defensive instructor for this year's squad, said, "Our defensive infield especially at second and shortstop is better than in '70 and we can do more things offensively too."

The keystone combination that Arce referred to includes Ozzie Smith of Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo at short, and Don Schmitz of Eastern Michigan at second base.

Dodgers recall outfielder Hale

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers recalled outfielder John Hale from their Albuquerque farm club and placed catcher Ellie Rodriguez on the 15-day disabled list Tuesday, a team spokesman said.

Hale had been scheduled to report to the Dodgers Sept. 7, after the Pacific Coast League season, but instead was slated to join the club Tuesday night in Montreal for the game against the Expos.

Rodriguez, who has not played since Aug. 22, has been hampered by an injury to his right hand.

The Dodgers also said starting times for three upcoming games have been changed. The Expos-Dodgers game Thursday, initially scheduled for 5:05 p.m., will instead begin at 2:05 p.m; the Dodgers-Astros Saturday at Houston will begin at 11:20 a.m. instead of 5:25 p.m., and the Dodgers-Padres Monday in San Diego will begin at 5:40 p.m. instead of 7 p.m., all times PDT.

U.S. Open courts tricky

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Horses for courses applies to tennis players as well as thoroughbred racers. Some competitors in the $416,600 U.S. Open Tennis Championships will be helped—and others will be hurt—by the slow, clay-like artificial surface at the West Side Tennis Club courts.

First-round men's singles action was scheduled for this afternoon and this evening in this richest of all tennis events, while women's play begins Thursday. Both are aiming for a $30,000 first prize.

The baseliners, the moonshot artists who lay back and return everything hit their way, should benefit the most from the Har-Tru surface, which allows them to reach more shots than they would on a faster grass court. The hard servers who rely on a power game, however, will be at a disadvantage.

Among the men, Bjorn Borg of Sweden, defending champion Manuel Orantes of Spain, Adriano Panatta of Italy and the American "Bagel Twins," Harold Solomon and Eddie Dibbs, all play particularly well on clay, so their stock must rise in this event.

Borg, who won Wimbledon and WCT earlier this year, captured the U.S. Pro title on clay Monday night and rates as cofavorite with top-seeded Jimmy Connors. The ever-dangerous Connors won the last U.S. Open played on grass, in 1974, and lost to Orantes in last year's finals.

Panatta took the French and Italian crowns this spring—both on clay. Solomon made it to the finals of the French and U.S. Pro tourneys—both on clay. And Dibbs rates with Solomon among the brightest young baseliners in the game.

Behind Connors and Borg, the men's seedings have Guillermo Vilas of Argentina rated No. 3 followed by Panatta; fiery Ilie Nastase of Romania; Orantes; veteran American Arthur Ashe, and Raul Ramirez of Mexico. Vilas, Nastase and Ashe figure to be among those hampered by the slow surface.

On the distaff side, the surface should help defending queen Chris Evert, who hardly needs the assistance. Miss Evert has won her last 95 matches on clay, and she breezed through the women's draw in last year's U.S. Open, the first played on the Har-Tru courts.

Miss Evert still is suffering from inflamed tendons in the middle finger of her racket hand, an injury which caused her to withdraw from the Federation Cup competition last week. But her first match is not until Saturday, when she faces Greer Stevens of South Africa, and she is expected to be recovered enough to begin defense of her crown. If she's anywhere near 100 per cent, she will be tough to beat.

Miss Evert's likely finals opponent is Evonne Goolagong, the Australian who has won virtually every major crown except this one. She bowed to Miss Evert in last year's title match, and has lost nine of their last 11 head-to-head encounters.

Feature matches this afternoon included Connors against South Africa's Bob Hewitt, Italy's Adriano Panatta against Ove Bengtson of Sweden, Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia against Phil Dent of South Africa and Eddie Dibbs against Puerto Rico's Charles Pasarell.

In tonight's action, defending champion Orantes goes up against Jun Kuki of Japan and Nastase takes on Onny Parun of New Zealand.

A total of 128 men and 96 women are aiming for the singles prizes, to be awarded Sept. 12. There will be day and night action for the first eight days of the tournament, with day play only thereafter.

Portions of the weekend action will be televised live by CBS, which also will show highlights of midweek play.

Sports briefs

ATLANTA (AP) — Reliever Mike Marshall has been placed on the disabled list because of a knee injury and right-hander Buzz Capra activate in his place, the Atlanta Braves announced Tuesday.

Marshall, who came to Atlanta on waivers from the Los Angeles Dodgers in June, had a 6-4 reocrd with 14 saves. He was 2-1 with the Braves.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers have placed veteran quarterback Norm Snead on waivers, a decision Monte Clark called "the most distasteful thing I've had to do as a head coach."

It became necessary to cut the 15-year veteran of the National Football League after the 49ers obtained Marty Domres from Baltimore on Monday. That gave the club four quarterbacks, including starter Jim Plunkett and rookie Scott Bull.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings have named George McGuire assistant general manager.

McGuire, 55, has been with the Kings since 1969, serving the last seven years as director of player personnel and chief scout.

NEW YORK (AP) — Transsexual Dr. Renee Richards says that she might sue the U.S. Tennis Association, the New York Times reported in its editions today.

Dr. Richards said Tuesday that she would sue unless the association waived its newly instituted sex chromosome test and admitted her to the U.S. Open Championship as an alternate.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — A recurring arm injury forced veteran John Newcombe of Australia to withdraw from the U.S. Open Tennis Championship on the eve of the event.

DOVER, England — Britain's Wendy Brook clipped seven minutes off Tina Bischoff's world record for a one-way swim across the English Channel by crossing in eight hours, 56 minutes.

Two Pomona policemen earn power lifting trophies

Pomona policemen Louie Hernandez and Larry Kidney are members of the newly crowned U.S. national championship power lifting team that beat out 22 other teams for the title at the recent national AAU championships held in Dallas, Texas.

LOUIE HERNADEZ

The team, known as the Thompson Power Lifting Team, is sponsored by WM Thompson Co., a Los Angeles-based manufacturer of vitamins, minerals and food supplements.

Power lifting, a rather newly recognized sport, is composed of three lifts — squat, benchpress and deadlift. The lifters compete within one of ten bodyweight classes, with both team and individual points awarded.

Hernandez, an Upland resident placed fourth in the middle-heavyweight class in his first national appearance in Dallas. He is the current California state record holder for the deadlift in that class at 685 pounds.

Kidney, a Chino resident, is the current state champion in the heavyweight division.

The Thompson Team will compete in early November in the Pomona Open, a meet sponsored by the Pomona Police Officers Association.

NFL player reps nix owners' contract offer

CHICAGO (AP) — National Football League player representatives have rejected the contract offer by team owners that sparked a fierce internal battle between their oft-controversial executive director and their union president.

The action Tuesday, after 11 hours of secret meetings, continues the rift between owners and players which in the last 2½ years has triggered one preseason walk-out, one wildcat strike and harsh feeling on both sided.

"I honestly don't know where we go from here," said a disconsolate Dick Anderson, the injured safety for the Miami Dolphins who as president of the NFL Players Association had worked out the proposal with owners last week.

"Sometimes you win, sometimes you lose, sometimes you get rained out. The game will go on," Anderson said.

He and three other members of the seven-man NFLPA Executive Committee supported acceptance of the offer. They were opposed by Ed Garvey, executive director of the players' union who some members would like to see ousted.

"It was a plan I felt was good and tried to sell," said Anderson. "Yeah, I'm disappointed, I feel at this point it's the best offer we're going to get."

Garvey has witheld public comment regarding his personal feeling on the offer, but a source close to him said he feared acceptance would negate players' rights already won in the courts.

Nevertheless, at a brief news conference following the marathon session, Garvey said no single point of the 70-page offer was the decisive factor in rejection. Rather, he said, it was the package as a whole.

By a majority vote, the Executive Committee summoned each of the 28 NFL teams' representatives to grapple with the proposal and decide whether to submit it to a vote of all the NFLPA players.

But the question never got that far.

Conceivably, the All-Stars could have an all left-handed hitting infield and a pair of lefties in the outfield. This is a factor that Arce deems extremely important.

"We picked a lot of left-handers by design because the Asian teams pitch sidearm and almost underhanded a great deal which is tough on right-handed hitters," Bill noted.

How were the players picked for the honor of participating on this team? Record responded, "We screened over 300 players from teams throughout the country. We didn't want just quality athletes but the type of young men that would represent our values over there."

Many of the players, all but one of whom are in college, will miss some schooling during their journey. Some will be absent for only a few days, others up to three weeks. However, each player has contacted his individual school and made educational arrangements.

The financial system is that of a typical U.S. Olympic endeavor. The team is not supported by the U.S. government. Major League baseball is the number one source of income, with a total of $15,000 being donated which is a matching fund agreement with the money the all-stars raised.

The U.S. Baseball Federation (USBF) donated money and major sporting goods manufacturers gave equipment to the squad. The young men have to pay the round-trip travel expenses to the Far East, but once in Asia, the Korean and Taiwan governments will pick up the tab as the host countries.

At this time it is not known exactly how many participants there will be in the Asian Tournament — possibly as little as 6 or as many as 10.

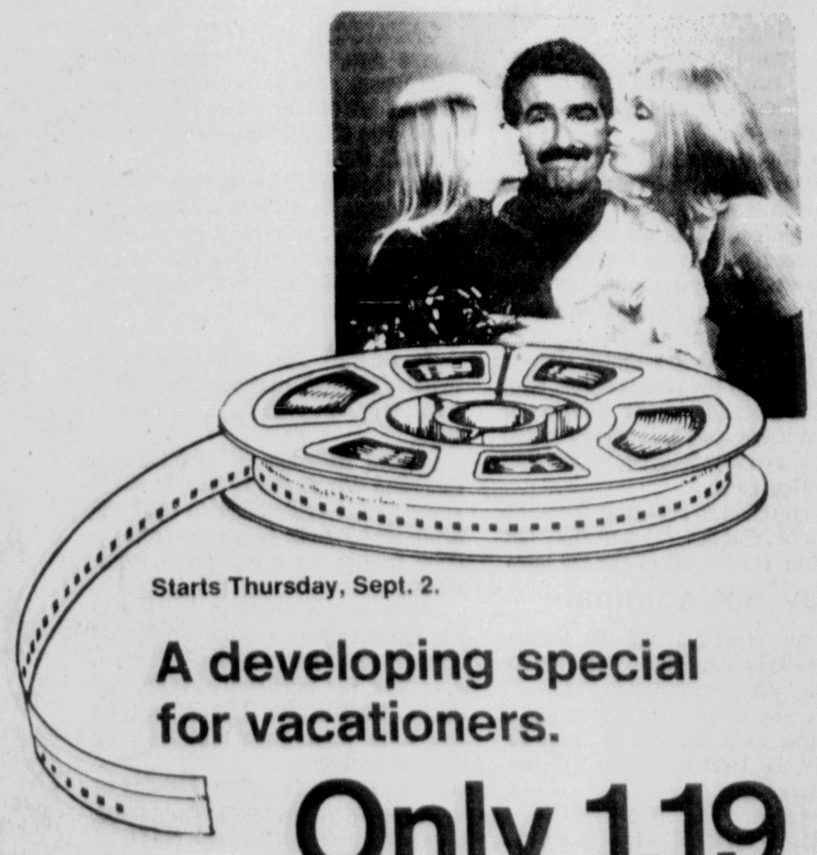

As in almost all "Olympic-like" sports events, international teams are a substantial challenge to the United States. One must understand that the teams the U.S. plays remain somewhat constant over a period of years because they don't differentiate between amateurism and professionalism.

Consequently, 28-30 year-old players are on other teams, and that is where a major challenge arises.

The only local player chosen for the all-star squad is La Verne College catcher Tim Burzette. "Tim has definitely got good defensive skills and is a scrapper," Record said. "He handles pitchers real well and his quick release makes him tough on base stealers."

"We're interested in winning but we are putting other things in perspective to that," coach Record noted. "However, we're not going to slight the effort of playing baseball the best we know how."

In case you haven't guessed, the outlook for this team is brilliant.

MSAC tilts to be aired

All Mt. San Antonio College home football games this season will be broadcast on radio station KSAK, the campus media outlet.

KSAK-FM is located at 90.1 on the dial. Play-by-play will be handled by Chuck Hugo and Dave Rivelle. The broadcasts will begin with a warm-up show at 7:10 p.m., gametime being 7:30 p.m.

MSAC will open its regular season on Saturday, Sept. 11 at home vs. Rio Hondo, which will be KSAK's initial broadcast of the year.

It's a Racquet

MONTCLAIR CHAMPION PAUL KUSTEL will be going for his second singles crown of the summer on Saturday. He's in the finals of the Upland-Ontario Closed Tennis Tournament and will face Rick Vargas for the title at 8 a.m. at the Upland High courts. Kustel, who won the Montclair men's tournament in June, scored a 6-3, 6-3 decision last weekend over semi-finals foe Doug Graybeal in the Upland Recreation Department-sponsored competition. Vargas advanced to the title bout by dispatching Joe Van Driesen, 6-3, 6-0.

The men's doubles contestants didn't progress quite that well on the opening weekend, filling only one finals slot. Jack Newman and Bill Behrens earned that place by defeating Jeff Gorman and Wade Mayo in semis action, 6-4, 6-3. But in the other half of the draw, a quarter-finals match is yet to be played, sending Paul Skvarna and Roger Skinner against Larry Kent and Albert Bertram.

Two finalists emerged for the boys 14 and under championship. They are John Gabel, a 6-2, 6-1 winner in the semis over Rick Koehler, and Shaun Skinner, who nipped John Hsu, 7-6, 4-6, 6-4.

Officials of the sponsoring Upland department had hoped for more events, including women's action and additional age levels for juniors, but didn't get enough entries. One reason for the insufficient turn-out, they concede, may have been the fact that they were bidding for players' time against other recent tournaments, including Ontario's earlier in August. Also, laying down the welcome mat only for Upland and Ontario residents may have narrowed the potential field too much.

STAN CLARK AND CHUCK ANDERSON, two Claremont Tennis Club veterans, are the doubles champs of that Ontario tournament. It took an extra week to get around to the finals match after rain fouled up the schedule on the last day of the tournament Aug. 15, but when the time came, Clark and Anderson polished off Kevin and Brian McGurty, 6-1, 6-1. The outcome deprived McGurty of a double championship — he already had won the singles title — and provided some consolation to Clark and Anderson, who both lost close semi-finals matches in the singles. In another rain-delayed finals Craig Haskell defeated Hugh Graham, 6-2, 6-2, for the B men's championship.

CLAREMONT'S TENNIS PROGRAM will become the valley's busiest once again with the start of its fall schedule Sept. 18. That agenda will include the resumption of the Saturday men's and mixed doubles and men's singles leagues and Tuesday women's singles ladders, all of which took a long summer recess.

The 12-week schedule will go as follows at the Claremont High-Cahuilla Park courts: men's doubles at 8:30 a.m.; mixed doubles at 10:30 a.m. and men's singles at 3 p.m., all on Saturdays; women's A singles at 9 a.m., B singles at 10:30 and C singles at noon, all on Tuesdays; and women's A doubles at 9 and B doubles at 11 on Thursdays.

Players can register for a Saturday league at the courts at the time of the first meeting. All women's singles entrants will meet at 9 a.m. Sept. 21 and the women's doubles teams will sign up at the same time Sept. 23. There'll be a 24-player limit for the singles, a 24-team limit for the doubles. Cost is $12.50 per person for Claremont residents, slightly more for others.

Two adult instructional classes and one for juniors also are on tap. One adult group will meet Saturdays at 1:30 p.m., the other Thursdays at 12:30 p.m., each at a cost of $23 per person. The class for youngsters 8 to 15 will meet Saturdays at 12:30 p.m., costing $15.50 per player. For these classes, pre-registration is required at the Parks and Recreation Office at Memorial Park. This starts Sept. 11 from 9 to 11 a.m. Instructors, as in the past, will be Bob and Penny Daoust and Mike Bechard.

VALLEY RACQUET CLUB has two new round-robin singles champions — Mike Ashbrook among the men and Vicky Lee among the women. Ashbrook recently won the club's second such event of the year for men, while Jack Newman was second and Steve Hayes was third. In the women's event last weekend Lee was tops in a 16-player field, ahead of second-place Teresea Wilson and

NAPP plans film festival

The Neighborhood Adult Participation Project, in conjunction with the Pomona Public Library will present the Ethnic Historical Appreciation Film Festival at the Pomona Neighborhood Center, 656 Ganesha Blvd., at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Admission to the three films is 10 cents.

The movies are "Eddie Kendricks" (1974), "African Changes: A Young Leader in a Young Nation" (1970) and "Aretha Franklin, Soul Singer" (1970).

The first is a candid look at soul singer Kendricks, the tenor voice that helped The Temptations become famous. Now on his own, Kendricks offers a glimpse of his music and his outlook on life.

"African Changes" is a look at the aspirations and problems of the emerging nation of Tanzania, examined through a young African commissioner's tour of his district.

"Aretha Franklin" is a center-stage and behind-the-scenes view of the popular singer. It shows her at rehearsals, singing in her church, relaxing at home and performing for a cheering throng.

Malta rulers

For 35 centuries, the Mediterranean island of Malta was under successive rule by Phoenicians, Carthaganians, Romans, Arabs, Normans, the Knights of Malta, France and most recently — from 1814 to 1964 — Britain. On Sept. 21, 1964, Malta became independent with the British monarch as head of state. On Dec. 13, 1974, Malta became a republic but remained within the British Commonwealth.

Singer nixes divorce appeal

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Tiny Tim says he won't give his estranged wife, "Miss Vicki," something she wants — a divorce.

"I don't believe in divorce. I'll always be married to Miss Vicki," the singer said in a recent interview. "She wants a divorce but I'm not going to give it to her. We're married until death do us part."

Tiny Tim, who is performing in the Nashville area, was asked whether he still loved his wife. "That's hard to say," he replied. "L-O-V-E is proven only by deeds, not words. I 'like' Miss Vicki."

Jugglers all

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — University of Oregon freshmen Matt Erwin and Peter Thacker may have started a new fad on campus.

Erwin, 18, brought three juggling balls with him when he came to the university last fall and started to show off his talents in his dormitory.

Twelve freshmen in the dormitory took up the hobby and recently formed their own fraternity. They call themselves "Tri Balla Bounca."

Shepherd named by MGM

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Film producer Richard Shepherd has been named world production head of MGM, the company's president, Frank E. Rosenfelt has announced.

Shepherd has been in the film industry for 28 years as agent, talent executive, independent and studio producer of such films as "Breakfast at Tiffany's," "The Fugitive Kind," "The Hanging Tree" and "Robin and Marian."

A cookout idea for summer's last hurrah

Well, this is it. Before long the grill will be cleaned and tucked away in a garage or basement corner, swimsuits will give way to shoulder pads, football spikes and cheerleading sweaters and summer will alas be gone. Give summer a big send off with a special patio party for Labor Day.

Skewered Steak and Vegetables is much more special than orinary cookout fare, yet no more difficult to prepare than hots or burgers. Thread cubes of sirloin or chuck steak on separate skewers from the vegetables. Meat takes longer to do on the grill than the vegetables, which are best when just heated through and still tender crisp. The special trick to this recipe is the succulent basting sauce which you quickly stir together with worcestershire sauce for added zip.

Quick and Easy Potato Salad is a great accompaniment for the skwered steak and vegetables. An envelope of mashed potato granules combines with celery and onion for a modern twist on this old favorite. Bits of cheese add a new taste treat.

Hot rolls, fresh peach shortcake, lemonade or iced tea complete your patio perfect menu for Labor Day.

SKEWERED STEAK AND VEGETABLES

¼ cup Worcestershire Sauce
¼ cup catsup
¼ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 pounds sirloin or chuck steak
Green peppers and cherry tomatoes

Stir together worcestershire sauce, catchup, vinegar, and brown sugar. Cut steak into cubes; arrange on skewers and brush with sauce. Grill over hot coals, turning frequently and brushing with sauce until done. Alternate peppers and tomatoes on skewers, brush with sauce, and grill a few minutes, until hot. 6 servings.

QUICK AND EASY POTATO SALAD

1 envelope (5 servings) mashed potato granules
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 cup chopped celery
2 or 3 slices process american cheese, diced
2 tablespoons minced onion
Lettuce

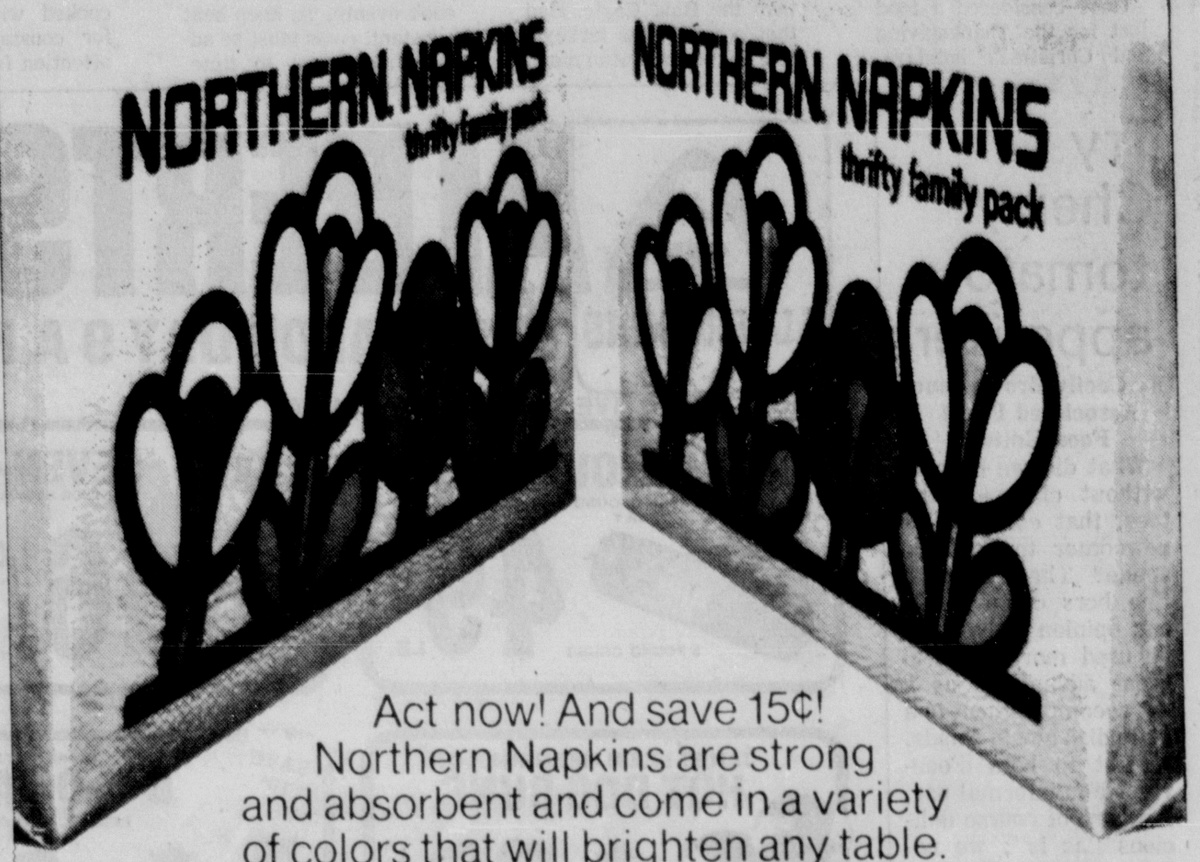

Prepare mashed potatoes following directions on package, except reduce water to 1 cup; cool. Stir in mayonnaise, celery, cheese, and onion. Chill. Serve on lettuce. 6 servings.

HEAVY DUTY LAUNDRY DETERGENT

Turkey makes festive Labor Day meal

Labor Day, the traditional end of the summer season, is an ideal time for a festive outdoor meal with family and friends. A party menu that will be easy on you, but memorable for your guests, can be planned around turkey, cooked slowly to a golden brown on the backyard grill.

Accompanied with potato salad, zucchini squash and Italian bread sticks, the turkey can be cooking while you and your guests relax on the patio.

Once considered a food just for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, turkey is becoming a popular year-around pleaser because it rates high in protein and low in calories. Besides being nutritious and economical, turkey is one of those glamorous and delicious dinners that rank as "special" with everyone.

Turkey even has a kind of bicentennial flavor, having the distinction of being the only native poultry of America and inspiring Benjamin Franklin to recommend it as the symbol of our country rather than the Bald Eagle. Had that occured, the turkey's role on the American menu might have ended right there.

For easy outdoor cooking we recommend a self-basting bird which takes the guesswork out of outdoor grilling. To serve 10, a 12 to 14 pound unstuffed hen turkey is the right size and is suitable for outdoor cooking. You will need a large covered grill, a pan or piece of foil beneath the turkey to catch drippings, and you must be sure to have a hot fire. The turkey should be placed in the middle of the grill so it will cook evenly. To keep heat constant, coals must be added from time to time. Because of the variety of grills on the market, it is best to follow your grill manufacturer's instructions for cooking tips.

Use a meat thermometer to determine when the turkey is done. Insert the thermometer in the center of the thigh next to the body, but be careful not to touch a bone. The turkey must be cooked until an internal temperature of 180-185 degrees is reached. Because it is self-basting the turkey will be tender and moist when cooked without the need for constant fussing and attention from the chef!

To accompany the turkey, the following recipes for potato salad, zucchini squash and Italian bread sticks may be used.

PATIO POTATO SALAD

12 slices bacon, crisply cooked, crumbled
6 cups chopped cooked potatoes
3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
¾ cup salad dressing
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
1½ teaspoons salt

Combine ingredients; mix thoroughly. Chill

8 to 10 servngs

ZUCCHINI GRILL

10 zucchini squash, cut lengthwise
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
Grated Parmesan cheese

Place zucchini in boiling, salted water. Cook 5 minutes; drain. Combine butter or margarine and garlic powder; brush on cut surfaces. Sprinkle with cheese. Grill 10 minutes or until heated through.

ITALIAN BREAD STICKS

1 cup flour
1 teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of garlic powder
¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 cup (4-oz.) shredded Mozzarella cheese
¼ cup water

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Combine flour and seasonings; cut in butter or margarine and cheese. Stir in water, shape dough into a ball. Knead until dough holds together. Shape tablespoons of dough into sticks ½-inch thick and 6-inches long; place on cookie sheet. Bake 400 degrees, 20 minutes; remove sticks from cookie sheet immediately.

Try Cherry tomato appetizers

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press
Food Editor

What did we ever do without cherry tomatoes, that comparative newcomer to the food scene? They make a fine hors d'oeuvre. In our opinion they could be used more often to great advantage, as a hot accompaniment to a main dish and in salads.

First to hors d'oeuvres. For informal use, they are of course delicious "as is"; we notice that guests who leave carrot and celery sticks strictly alone nibble on the "cherries." For a party, they're delightful stuffed with a deviled ham, Swiss cheese and olive filling. The recipe follows.

To use them as a hot accompaniment to a main dish, you might like to choose the quick-and-easy way. Heat a little olive oil, a minced clove of garlic and a dash of oregano or basil in a skillet. Add the tomatoes; shake the pan or stir often just until the tomatoes are hot through and the skins begin to burst. Sprinkle with salt and freshly ground pepper.

For a salad, toss cherry tomatoes into a bowl of torn greens along with marinated artichoke hearts. The artichoke hearts come in a jar and their marinade makes a delightful dressing. However, if the salad is large, you may need to add a little extra olive oil and wine vinegar to the marinade.

STUFFED CHERRY TOMATO HORS D'OEUVRE

1 pint about 30 good-size cherry tomatoes
4½ oz. can deviled ham
¾ cup finely grated Swiss cheese
½ cup finely chopped pimiento-stuffed green olives
1 tablespoon minced onion

Rinse and dry tomatoes. Thinly slice the tops from them. Scoop out pulp with a teaspoon and drain shells upside down on paper toweling. In a small mixing bowl stir together the deviled ham, ½ cup of the cheese, the olives and onion; spoon into the tomato shells. Sprinkle with the remaining cheese. Cover and refrigerate until ready to use, but best served shortly after making. Makes about 30 hors d'oeuvres.

Very spotty

Estimates for the 1976 grain crop in the U.S. are mixed because of varied spring and summer weather conditions across the nation. Officials are predicting a record corn crop, with estimates some 14 per cent above 1975 and 41 per cent higher than 1974's poor crop. The wheat crop is expected to be the second largest in history. On the dismal side, oats and barley are down.

Cookout for a crowd—barbecue with Italian twist

What could be more fun than a celebration? To celebrate the lingering joys of summer and pursue the happiness of a long, leisurely weekend, why not gather together a congenial group for a Labor Day cookout! The more the merrier! Mix family, friends and a few new faces for this easy-going, outdoor occasion.

Cooking for twelve is not much more "labor" than cooking for two. The secret is in careful planning. Leave yourself free with a minimum of last-minute tasks. For step-saving, keep a bucketful of briquets on hand next to a good-sized charcoal grill to accommodate the size of your group. About thirty minutes before serving time, stack the briquets in a pyramid for a quick-starting, hot fire that won't fade before the cooking's finished. Start the fire well in advance with a liquid or jelly starter, allowing a minute for the starter to soak the briquets before lighting. Then tend to your party. Sing a song, do a dance, whatever — but be patient. And wait until the coals are completely ready (grey and ashen are best) before starting to cook.

Fashion a dozen or so hefty hamburgers to be grilled to perfection. Put together ground chuck with onions, garlic, herbs and shreds of mozzarella cheese. Place on grill rack, 6 inches above grey coals and grill 8 to 10 minutes on each side for medium doneness. Then pour two jars of marinara sauce into a saucepan and heat over the coals until thick and bubbly. While the sauce is warming, toast thick chunks of split Italian bread on the grill until crusty brown. Set burgers on one half, ladle a generous spoonful of sauce over-all and crown with another piece of bread.

Don't limit the fun of grilling to just the chopped meat. Try a hot and hearty potato salad made in a skillet and cooked right on the grill. Simply collect the ingredients, all sliced and ready to go — cooked potatoes (done the day before), Spanish olives, green peppers, celery, onions and sweet Italian sausage. Stir up and serve alongside the charcoal burgers. Set out a stack of paper plates and plastic utensils and let the guests help themselves for the easiest kind of party.

Helpful Hint: For faster cooking and easier cleaning later, line the grill with heavy-duty aluminum foil.

With cooking done and cleanup a snap — just relax and join your crowd in a toast to warm-days past and good times yet to come!

Hamburger Italiano
(Makes 12 servings)
5 pounds ground chuck
5 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon each oregano and basil
1 clove garlic, mashed
2 large onions, minced
1 pound mozzarella cheese, coarsely shredded
2 jars (15½ ounces each) marinara sauce
12 chunks Italian bread, each 2 inches wide, split

In a bowl, mix chuck, salt, pepper, herbs, garlic, onions and cheese. Mix until well blended. Shape mixture into 12 patties. Place patties on grill rack 6 inches above grey coals and grill 8 to 10 minutes on each side for medium. Place sauce in a saucepan and heat 6 inches above grey charcoals until bubbly. Place bread, cut side down, on grill rack and toast until golden brown. Place hamburgers on Italian bread, spoon some of the sauce over each burger and replace top of bread. Serve with pickles, Spanish olives and carrot sticks.

Hot Potato Salad Italiano
(Makes 12 servings)
½ cup olive oil
2 onions, chopped
2 green peppers, chopped
1 pound sweet Italian sausage, removed from casing and crumbled
2/3 cup red wine vinegar
12 cups sliced, cooked potatoes
2 cups sliced celery
1 cup sliced, stuffed olives
1 tablespoon sugar
Salt and pepper

Place a skillet on grill rack 6 inches above grey coals. Heat olive oil and saute onion, green pepper and sausage until sausage is brown and crumbly. Do not drain drippings. Stir in remaining ingredients and season to taste with salt and pepper. Stir over coals until salad is piping hot.

LABOR DAY BARBECUE

RICE AND CHICKEN SALAD

Labor Day Salad gives cook a rest

It was Peter McGuire, a carpenter, who first had the idea, in 1882, that as a tirbute to America's workers, one day of the year should be devoted to not working. He called it, appropriately, Labor Day. The idea eventually caught on and became a national holiday for everyone — that is, except for Mom, for whom no holiday is ever really a holiday.

Not so this Labor Day — or any all-family day — if she tries this suggestion for a hearty, easily prepared chicken and rice ring. This dish could be made the day before and refrigerated so that Mom can spend the day having fun with the rest of the family.

The whole dish is a simple matter to prepare. green onion, pineapple juice, and bottled red Russian dressing are mixed with rice and simply packed into a ring mold to chill. The salad filling is a marvelous combination of flavors, texture, and colors: chicken, pineapple, green pepper, chestnuts are marinated in an easy-to-make mixture using the remainder of the dressing. By using the bottled red Russian dressing, you eliminate the need to season with lots of different spices and herbs. You can use any leftover cooked chicken or meats, so it's economical to make, too.

At the end of a glorious day's relaxation when the family is ready to eat, you simply unmold the rice ring, fill it with the chicken salad — and you have a tempting, hearty, main dish salad with little labor and lots of flavor.

END OF A SUNNY DAY SALAD

3 cups cooked rice
1 bottle (8 oz.) Russian dressing
¼ cup finely chopped green onions
1 can (8 oz.) pineapple chunks in natural juice, drained (reserve 1 tablespoon juice)
1 tablespoon soy sauce
¾ teaspoon ground ginger
2 cups cubed cooked chicken
2 medium green peppers, cut into 1-inch chunks
1 can (8½ oz.) water chestnuts, draned and sliced

In medium bowl, combine rice, 1/3 cup red Russian dressing, green onions, and reserved pineapple juice. Pack into lightly greased 3 or 4-cup ring mold; chill.

In medium bowl, combine remaining 2/3 cup Russian dressing, soy sauce, and ginger. Add chicken, green pepper, pineapple, and water chestnuts; chill, tossing occasionally, at least 2 hours.

To serve, unmold rice ring and fill center with salad mixture. Serve, if desired, on fresh lettuce or spinach leaves. Makes about 4 servings.

Seventeen plans market classes

NEW YORK — Now that the back-to-school and work season is here and meals have to be planned around busy schedules, Albertson's supermarkets are turning into idea centers for quick and easy dinners. Co-sponsored by Seventeen Magazine, the dinners highlight unusual soups, vegetables, main dishes, desserts, cookies and beverages. Ideas offered on recipe pads range from "California Avocado Meat Loaves" and "Half-Hour Paella" to "Lemon Cheese Parfait" and "Suisse Mocha Cooler."

All during the month of September, banners and posters will announce "Quick Fix, No Fuss Dinners!" and shelf talkers will call your attention to the padded recipes and foods used to make them.

An additional group of quick and easy dinner menus with recipes — for a family of six or two roommates — is featured in the food section of the September Seventeen.

Supermarket Doubles as Classroom

The supermarket will also turn into a classroom in September for high school home economic students and their teachers.

Labor Day Hamburger Hoagies

"But why do they call it Labor Day?" When the kids pop that irksome question, be ready with the answer. Just before the turn of the century, the Knights of Labor paraded in New York City on the first Monday in September, demanding that day be set aside to honor workers and the labor movement. In 1894 Congress decreed that the first Monday in September be set aside to honor labor and so it became a nationwide legal holiday.

Now that we've established the why, two new recipes from the Test Kitchens of The R.T. French Company in Rochester, New York provide the answer to how to celebrate this Labor Day.

Hamburger Hoagies are a hearty hamburger sandwich for a casual backyard picnic. Invite the neighbors over since this recipe will feed eight hungry people. Give the burgers a touch of Old Mexico with an envelope of chili seasoning mix. Top with fresh garden vegetables and serve on crusty hero rolls for a holiday special treat.

Bean and Cabbage Slaw is a crisp combination of cooked green beans (fresh if you have them . . . otherwise just open a can) and shredded cabbage. You make the zesty dressing yourself with prepared yellow mustard, oil and vinegar.

Add fresh fruit and cookies, iced tea or lemonade for an easy and relaxing Labor Day picnic.

HAMBURGER HOAGIES

2 pounds ground beef
1 envelope (¾-oz) chili mix
½ cup water
8 crusty rolls
8 slices process american cheese
2 tomatoes, sliced
1 onion, sliced

Combine ground beef, contents of chili mix envelope, and water; shape 8 patties to fit rolls. Grill over hot coals. Serve on rolls topped with cheese, tomato, and onion. 8 servings.

BEAN AND CABBAGE SLAW

2 tablespoons prepared yellow mustard
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
4 cups shredded or chopped cabbage
1 to 2 cups cooked chilled beans (or 1-lb. can, drained)

Brisky stir together oil, mustard, sugar, and vinegar. Combine cabbage and beans in salad bowl; add dressing and toss lightly. 8 servings.

HOAGIES AND BEAN AND CABBAGE SLAW

Clean can opener

You may not want to bother doing this, but experts say that one way to keep a can opener sharp is to wash and dry the cutting edge right after using the opener.

Sausage facts

All varieties of sausage are made of comminuted (ground or chopped) meat, mixed with spices. This emulsion most often is stuffed into casings to form and bind the sausage for further processing, which may include cooking, smoking, drying or otherwise curing.

Varieties of sausage are determined by the kind and amount of meat that is used in proportion to other ingredients, the coarseness of grinding or chopping, the kind and amount of spices and seasonings, the type of cooking, smoking, curing and/or drying and the type of casing used.

The word "sausage" is derived from the Latin "salsus" — salted or preserved.

The highest grades of sausages are encased in natural casings which provide the best flavor. Natural sausage casings, prepared from the intestines of sheep, hogs and cattle, are delicate and fragile tubes into which sausage meat is stuffed for curing and processing (Before stuffing, the casings are thoroughly cleaned and all fat is removed in accordance with strict government regulations).

Natural casings permit deep smoke penetration, which maximizes flavor.

Natural casings protect the delicate or hearty flavor of the sausage, regardless of the variety.

Sausage in natural casings stay tender and juicy.

Natural casings afford maximum yields.

Natural casings are highly digestable.

Sausage is processed in all shapes — links, rings, patties, squares, rounds . . .

Natural sausage casings generally curve due to the "memory" of the casing. The actual shape of the sausage depends on the type of casing, its' tradition, processing and perishability.

Sausage is available fresh, frozen, vacuum packaged, canned, cooked, pre-cooked.

Sausage meat is beef, pork, veal, lamb, variety meats or a combination of any of these. Other sausage ingredients may be dry milk, eggs, gelatin, corn syrup, cereal, nuts, spices and seasonings, stabilizers and preservatives.

Sausage spices and seasonings may include allspice, anise, bay leaves, black pepper, caraway, cardamon, chives, cloves, coriander, cumin, dill, fennel, garlic, ginger, lemon rind and juice, mace, marjoram, mustard, nutmeg, paprika, parsley, pistachio nuts, red wine, sage, salt, savory, sugar, thyme, white pepper and/or white wine.

Sausage is generally classified as fresh, fresh smoked, cooked, cooked smoked, dry or semi-dry and cooked meat specialties.

Individual varieties of sausages are distinguishable by their blend and grind of meat, spices and seasonings, their shape and size.

The word "salami" signifies garlic, and nearly all salami varieties are flavored with garlic. Also, salamis are generally made of coursely chopped meat.

Cervelats, which usually do not contain garlic, are made of finely ground meat.

Curing was performed originally to preserve the meat; today it is done primarily to flavor and color the sausage.

Most smoked sausages are cured first.

Smoked sausages receive their flavor from hanging in a smokehouse, over a variety of smouldering hard woods, where the time and temperature are carefully controlled. Smoking time varies from a few minutes to two weeks, depending on the type of sausage.

The drying process for sausage is performed under carefully controlled conditions of humidity, temperature and air circulation for a period from 10 minutes to several months.

Steamed

STEAM COOKED BEEF IS NUTRITIOUS, PRACTICAL and delicious. Select lean boneless cuts such as beef chuck, rib lifters, sirloin tip, round or rump to slice thinly across the grain. The strips cook quickly by steam requiring a minimum of fat. For equipment any heavy pan with a rack (to hold the plate of beef) and a cover will do. Pour hot water into bottom of pan, set plate of thin beef strips on rack. Heat to boiling, then cover and steam 5 to 8 minutes, stirring once or twice for even cooking. For extra flavor, beef may be marinated before cooking. Serve the succulent steamed beef on rice.

Rich no-egg dishes for dieters

When you've had your quota of eggs for the week on an egg-limited diet, and you still long for more, there's a way to make your wish come true. You can have a great dish like Goldenrod Nuggets or a rich Newbury Sauce to serve with fish or chicken if it is made at home with egg substitute. When this product, made with fresh egg white, is used as an ingredient in cooking, it gives richness of flavor and performs the job of thickening sauces or binding food together.

Goldenrod Nuggets is cholesterol-lowered in more ways than one. It uses polyunsaturated margarine, skim milk, French bread slices (a bread made without eggs) and of course, the egg substitute. When one is familiar with special cholesterol-lowered recipes, one can have needed variety in an egg-limited diet and therefore more satisfaction at meals.

Newburg Sauce with its traditional ingredients of eggs, butter and cream is not something that an egg-limited eater could order in a restaurant, but made at home with a cholesterol-lowered recipe, it can be enjoyed not only by the egg-restricted eater but by the whole family or guests. Combined with fish or chicken, this Newburg Sauce brings back the Gay Nineties when dishes a la Newburg were the favorite status food.

It's really festive eating, quite permissable on the cholesterol-lowered regime that so many people are following these days to help avoid the risk of heart attack.

Here are two specially designed recipes to put fabulous foods back in your diet.

GOLDENROD NUGGETS

- 4 tablespoons polyunsaturated margarine, divided
- 2 cups egg substitute
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2¾ cups skim milk
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- Toasted French bread slices

In large skillet, melt 1 tablespoon margarine, add egg substitute and cook over low heat until set. Do not stir. Turn out of pan, cool, and cut two thirds of egg substitute into small cubes. Push remainder through sieve and set aside.

In medium saucepan melt remaining 3 tablespoons margarine over low heat. Blend in flour and cook, sitrring constantly, 1 minute. Stir in milk, lemon juice, mustard, salt and Tabasco. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Simmer 2 minutes. Fold in cubed egg substitute and spoon over toasted French bread. Garnish with sieved egg substitute. YIELD: 4 servings.

NEWBURG SAUCE

- 3 tablespoons polyunsaturated margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1½ cups skim milk
- 2 tablespoons sherry
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash paprika
- ¼ cups egg substitute

In medium saucepan melt margarine over medium heat. Blend in flour stirring constantly and cook, 1 minute. Stir in milk, sherry, salt and paprika. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Cook 2 minutes longer. Add a little hot mixture to egg substitute and pour back into sauce. Stir until completely heated, about 1 minute, do not boil. Serve immediately. YIELD: About 2 cups sauce.

Serving Suggestions: Add 2 cups cut-up cooked fish fillets or chicken to sauce; heat but do not boil. Serve in toast cups or over rice.

GOLDENROD NUGGETS

Freezing beef a real bargain

Buying beef these days is a shopper's delight. Beef is plentiful and the prices are lower than they have been all summer. Consumer information specialists from the California Beef Council advise taking advantage of these seasonal best buys. This applies to meals you are planning this week as well as those for a later date.

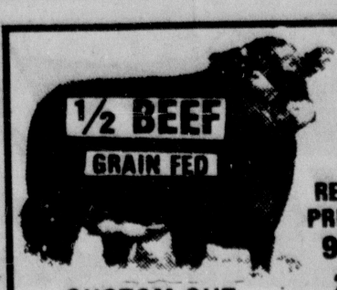

To shop ahead and put beef aside for future meals is a wise purchase only if you have adequate freezer space available. Beef properly wrapped in moisture proof material and quickly frozen will keep in top notch condition for many weeks or months. One pertinent point to remember is that a constant cold temperature of zero degrees Fahrenheit or minus 17.8 degrees Celsius is of utmost importance for beef to retain all its goodness while in a frozen state.

On the average, one cubic foot of freezer space will accomodate 35 to 40 pounds of beef. If you have adequate freezer space taking advantage of these attractive beef bargains is a true saving, advise the Beef Council experts. The average freezing compartments of most combination refrigerator/freezer units in the home are not suitable for extended storage of frozen beef. Beef will keep for a week or two under these conditions but not for longer periods.

An informative 6-page folder covering points to consider when purchasing beef for your freezer is available free of cost from the California Beef Council. Send a stamped, self addressed long envelope (No. 10) to BEEF FOR YOUR FREEZER, California Beef Council, 680 Beach Street, San Francisco, CA 94109.

Steep rise

Consumption of yogurt nationally has resulted in a doubling of sales in just the past five years. Californians consumed more than 11½ million gallons of yogurt last year alone — an increase of 32 per cent over 1974. Translated to per capita consumption, each person in California consumed on the average of two quarts of yogurt last year. Ninety per cent of the market is in flavored varieties, with strawberry topping the list of favorites.

Sausage making can be fun project

Homemade sausage is really a great eating pleasure — and making it can be a fun project for the whole family.

Today, along with bread baking, quilt making and other homemade arts of yesteryear, the art of sausage making is having a rebirth. Your first attempt may take a while, but once you get the knack of it, it goes quickly and easily.

In most recipes you can take much of the work out of the procedure by calling for ground meats. Your butcher almost always will be happy to grind the meat to your specifications. Just ask him.

Another time-saver in sausage making is to use a sausage-stuffing attachment on your mixer or meat grinder. You can stuff manually (by putting the casings over the end of a funnel and pushing the mixture through by hand), but it's a lot easier if you use equipment designed for sausage stuffing.

Use Fresh Ingredients

The sausage you make is as good as the quality of the ingredients you put into it. All ingredients — especially the meat — should be as fresh as possible. For best quality, buy the ingredients on the day you plan your sausage making venture.

To lock in that homemade flavor, use natural casings. Like the skin of fruits and vegetables, natural casings are excellent protectors of flavor, juices and nutrients.

Where to Get Natural Casings

Many supermarkets sell narrow hog casings packed in salt in cartons. If your supermarket doesn't stock them regularly, ask the meat department to order some for you. If you don't have any luck at your supermarket, ask the butcher at a store that makes its own sausage to sell you some of his supply. To find these stores, look in the Yellow Pages of your telephone book under "Sausages."

If you're still having trouble finding natural casings write the INSCA Consumer Service Bureau, 900 Kent Street, Elk Grove Village, Illinois 60007. We'll help you locate a source in your area.

Preparing the Casings

Most natural casings come in the dry form and are packed in salt in cartons (usually about 50 to 60 feet of casings per carton.)

To prepare for stuffing, rinse the casings under warm running water; then soak in warm water for 15 minutes. Insert two fingers in one end of casing to separate. Hold under the faucet and let water run through entire length. If casing is too long to handle, cut in lengths of about 24 inches. After rinsing, tie a knot in one end and place on absorbent paper until ready to stuff. Rinse only enough casings for amount of sausage to be stuffed. If you have casings left over, rinse them thoroughly, repack in salt in their original container and return to the refrigerator for storage. They'll last for several months.

Stuffing Sausage

If you're stuffing sausage by hand, slip the open end of a prepared casing over the tube of a funnel and work the casing onto tube until tied end is about one inch from mouth. Press the meat mixture through funnel into casing.

The quickest and easiest way to stuff, however, is to use a sausage making attachment on the mixer or food grinder. To assemble the equipment, follow manufacturer's instructions. Be sure to remove grinder blade before attaching the stuffing tube.

Slip open end of casing over stuffing tube and feed meat mixture into the hopper. Start motor (if grinder is electric) or manually turn handle of grinder until mixture is fed into casing. Fill casing slowly and evenly, holding end of casing and gently easing it away from the mouth of the tube.

If a large air pocket develops inside the casing, pierce casing with a fine needle. If casing should tear, stop grinder and tie off casing; then proceed. To form links, twist casing about three turns at desired lengths or tie off with heavy thread or light string.

Peanutty pudding

What's a better treat for hungry youngsters than a combination of creamy smooth pudding and peanut butter! Blend 2½ cups cold milk into ½ cup chunky peanut butter in a bowl. Add 1 package (4-serving size) butterscotch, chocolate or vanila instant pudding and pie filling. Beat slowly with a rotary beater or at lowest speed of electric mixer for about 2 mintues, until well blended. Makes about 2½ cups or 5 servings. This is a great after-school treat, and, better yet, you can make use of an individual serving thermos for a nutritious school-lunch dessert.

Quick gourmet beef

The historical origin of Steak Diane may be obscure but not so its popularity. This famous entree is to be found on menus from coast to coast in some of the most elegant and posh dining establishments. It's a delicious steak which can be done quickly and easily at home in your favorite cast iron or teflon coated skillet. The California Beef Council consumer information specialists suggest cooking the steak to rare, serving immediately topped with the savory butter and herb pan sauce.

STEAK DIANE

- 4 loin or top round beef steaks (5 to 6-ounces each)
- Salt
- 2 teaspoon EACH butter and oil
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 teaspoons worcestershire sauce
- 4 teaspoons lemon juice
- 4 teaspoons chopped parsley
- 4 teaspoons chopped chives

Sprinkle steaks lightly with salt on each side. Heat 2 teaspoons butter and oil in skillet, and brown steak quickly on both sides. Reduce heat to moderate, and cook until steak is rare. Remove to heated serving plates. Pour off any remaining fat in skillet (and set it off the heat for a few seconds.) Add all remaining ingredients, and heat until butter melts, and browned particles are loosened from pan. Pour over steaks and serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Fluffy peanut butter dessert

Looking for a different kind of a dessert? This forzen Fluffy Peanut Butter Pie that tastes like ice cream is just that. The smooth blend of flavors is the delight of this dreamy dessert that can be made ahead of time and kept in the freezer until you want to treat the family and friends.

The filling of peanut butter, cream cheese, powdered sugar and non-dairy topping is whipped together and swirled into a graham cracker pie crust. Some taste testers in the Kitchens of Peter Pan preferred a baked pastry shell, so make your choice.

FLUFFY PEANUT BUTTER PIE

Yield: 9-inch pie

- ½ cup peanut butter, smooth or crunchy
- 8 ounces cream cheese, softened
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- ½ cup milk
- 9 ounce package forzen non-dairy topping, thawed
- 9 inch graham cracker crumb crust*
- ¼ cup finely chopped peanuts, optional

Whip cheese until soft and fluffy. Beat in peanut butter and sugar. Slowly add milk, blending thoroughly into mixture. Fold topping into mixture. Pour into prepared crust. Sprinkle with chopped peanuts, if desired. Freeze until firm and serve. For storage longer than 4 to 6 hours, wrap the pie well for freezing to prevent dehydration.

*Use a 9-inch baked pastry shell, if desired.

Cool hospitality with avocado-fruit ring

The pineapple has long been a West Indian symbol of hospitality. Sailors saw the natives put the tops of the palmy plants over their doorways as a welcome sign and brought the habit home to America. They often carved the attractive pineapple motif on mahogany from tropical ports, and used it on beds and other pieces of furniture.

Nothing is more welcomed on a warm weather day than a cool Pineapple Avocado Ring filled with cold shrimp. The smooth blend of gelatin, crushed pineapple, diced avocado and mayonnaise is poured into a four-cup ring mold and chilled until firm. Pineapple gelatin offers a bright, tropical flavor. Its exclusive taste livens up any recipe.

Working women could whip up the gelatin mold the night before and the next evening come home to a cool, light supper. Served at noon it makes an excellent luncheon entree. Instead of shrimp, it could be filled with crab meat or tuna salad.

Cultivate young gourmets with German cuisine

"Yuk! I don't want that. It looks funny."

"What's that little squiggly thing? I don't like it."

"I don't want to try it. It smells strange."

Sound familiar? You've probably heard something like it the last time you dared to serve your family a new dish. Children find hot dogs, hamburgers, french fries and coke quite palatable. Even a plate of spaghetti gets a fairly friendly acceptance at the dinner table. But stuffed eggplant? Beef goulash? Good luck!

If you want your children to try stuffed eggs, for example, let them help you make them. That way they will know that they are simply made of egg yolk, red paprika, fresh parsley and imported German Camembert cheese. They can help you fill egg halves and arrange them on a platter. And, when it's time to eat them, they won't be afraid of the unknown.

Just about every child loves macaroni. But, how many have tried Spaetzle, a long-time German favorite? Yet, it is so simple to make. Once the ingredients are mixed, you just press the dough through a sieve into boiling water. Kids are sure to get excited when they watch the small noodles rise to the top of the pot. If you're rushed, however, prepared Spaetzle is available in the supermarket.

Homemade or not, this novel pasta can be garnished with butter and parsley for a side dish with meat or fish. But, this German specialty can be turned into a main meal. Let your little ones sprinkle imported German Trappist and Steppe cheese over the hot noodles. It's macaroni and cheese with a German accent.

Another man dish idea starts with an assured winner — frankfurters. All kids love them. But once they try imported German frankfurters, they'll be in for a real taste surprise. By combining these delicious frankfurters with vegetables — onions, potatoes, tomatoes, chives, parsley and small pieces of cut up lean bacon — you've got a totally new experience for your children to try.

Pancakes are certainly on most children's wanted lists. But, instead of buckwheat and maple syrup, how about Miracle Mirabelle Pancakes? Whip up a package of imported German potato pancake mix and roll each thin pancake with warmed imported German mirabelles (plums) or slightly tart lingonberries. Sprinkle with confectioner's sugar and they are sure to win over any leery sweet tooth.

For the ultimate dessert, top off your little one's gourmet lesson with German Lingonberry Fritters. There's no question . . . fritters are fun! Kids will love watching them puff up into crunch little balls as you drop them into hot fat. They can help dusting the browned puffs with confectioner's sugar. And, if there are any left by the time that they reach the table, enjoy!

STUFFED EGGS

Hard-boiled eggs
Red paprika
Fresh parsley, minced
1 ripe Camembert

Cut hard-boiled eggs in half. Remove the egg yolk and mix with paprika, parsley and the Camembert. Fill in egg halves and arrange on platter.

GERMAN CHEESE SPAETZLE

5 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup cold water
6 counces grated German Steppe
2 ounces grated German Trappist
1 onion
4 ounces butter
1 tablespoon breadcrumbs

Beat together flour, eggs, salt and cold water until bubbles appear. Let set for about ½ hour. In a large pot, bring saltwater to a boil. Press dough through a Spaetzle sieve (one with large holes) into boiling water. Do not crowd pot. Spaetzle will rise to the surface when cooked, about 5 minutes. Remove with slotted spoon and put in warm bowl, alternately adding Trapisten and Stepped cheese. Continue to press dough through sieve until all is cooked. Slice onions into rings and brown in butter. Add breadcrumbs to onion rings, brown, and pour over cheese Spaetzle. (Serves 5-6.)

GERMAN FRANKFURTERS WITH VEGETABLES

2 tablespoons bacon drippings
2 ounces lean bacon, cut in small pieces
4 onions, minced
2 tablespoons paprika
½ pounds potatoes, peeled and cubed
1 pound tomatoes, cubed
1 cup beef stock
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
Dash of garlic powder
6 imported German frankfurters
1 teaspoon minced chives
Few sprigs parsley

In dutch oven, heat bacon drippings, add bacon, onions and heat until transparent. Sprinkle with paprika and stir. Add potatoes, tomatoes and beef stock. Season with salt and pepper and simmer, covered, for about 25 to 35 minutes. You may have to add some water. Add garlic powder just before serving. Heat frankfurters, separately, add to vegetables and sprinkle with chives. Serve garnished with parsley.

MIRACLE MIRABELLE PANCAKES

1 package imported German potato pancake mix
1 can imported German mirabelles (plums)
Confectioner's sugar
Butter

Prepare pancakes according to package directions. Add thin layer of butter to buttered skillet or omelet pan. Cook each pancake until lightly browned, turn over and lightly brown other side. Heat in a saucepan one can of the mirabelles (you may use lingonberries if preferred). As each pancake is cooked, scoop some of the mirabelles onto the pancake, roll up and sprinkle with confectioner's sugar.

GERMAN LINGONBERRY FRITTERS

1 can imported German Lingonberries, drained (save juice)
2 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
Milk

Add enough milk to the juice of the lingonberries to equal 2/3 cups. Reserve berries. Resift the all-purpose flour, along with salt and sugar. Hold aside. Separate eggs. Combine yolks, liquid, butter and resifted flour. Stir until just blended. Whip 2 egg whites until stiff, but not dry and fold into batter. Add drained fruit. With teaspoon, drop batter into hot fat and fry until golden brown. Dust with confectioner's sugar if you wish, and serve warm.

You certainly don't have to ring a bell to ask our Butchers a question about meat. Pineapple adds sweet, crunchy texture to bread

Looking for a new way to make sandwich fillings more interesting and nutritious? Try them with "Pineapple Whole Wheat Bread".

Here's a classic homemade yeast bread that's easy to make and delicious to toast or spread plain with an endless variety of good things — tuna, egg or chicken filling, peanut butter or deviled ham — topped with lettuce and tomato, cheese, crisp bacon or cold meats. Sounds good, doesn't it?

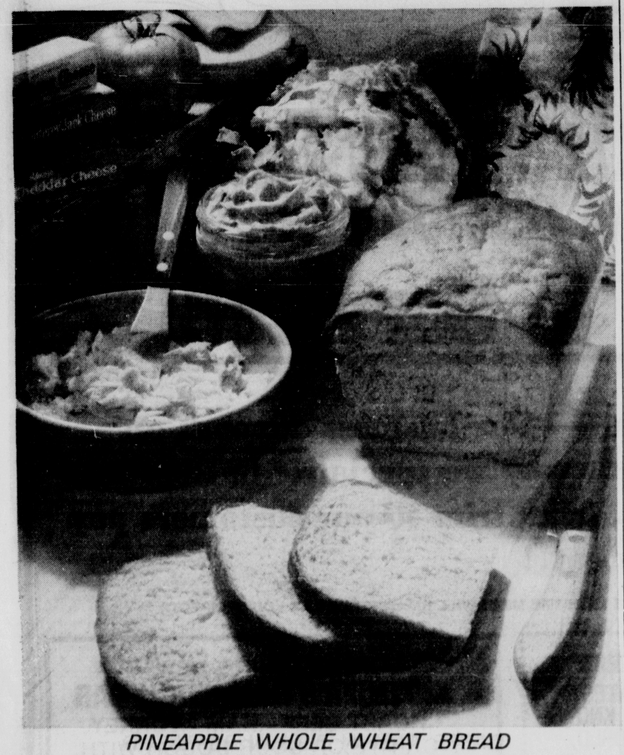

The whole wheat dough uses non-fat dry milk and canned crushed Hawaiian pineapple with some of its syrup.

Not only is the bread rich in flavor, but it's tender and moist. Whether it's sandwiches for picnics, back-to-school luncheons or after-school snacks, coffee break or teatime treats, you'll find "Pineapple Whole Wheat Bread" a mighty handy loaf to have around.

PINEAPPLE WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

- 1 (8¼ ounce) can crushed pineapple
- 1 cake or package yeast
- 1/3 cup warm water
- 1/3 cup nonfat dry milk
- 1/3 cup syrup from pineapple
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar (packed)
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 2 cups whole wheat flour
- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour

Drain pineapple well, reserving syrup. Soften yeast in warm water in large mixing bowl. Combine nonfat dry milk, 1/3 cup reserved pineapple syrup, sugar, oil and salt. Add to softened yeast. Add whole wheat flour, ½ cup at a time, beating well by hand after each addition. Blend in well drained pineapple. Gradually blend in about ¾ cup all-purpose flour, mixing to a stiff dough. Turn remaining ¼ cup flour onto board. Turn out dough, and knead about 5 minutes, adding a little more flour if needed. Place in oiled bowl, turn dough over so top surface is oiled, and cover. Let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1½ hours. Punch down, turn out on floured board and roll out to a rectangle about 8 inches wide and 1 inch thick. Roll up tightly, pinching ends together firmly. Place seam side down in greased loaf pan (8½ x 4½ x 2½ inches). Brush top lightly with oil. Let rise until doubled, about 1 hour. Top of loaf in center should be about 1 inch above edge of pan. Bake below oven center in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F) about 40 minutes. Cover top of loaf with a sheet of foil if top begins to brown too deeply. Turn out onto wire rack to cool, and brush top crust lightly with oil or melted butter while hot. Cool before cutting or storing. Makes 1 loaf.

PINEAPPLE WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

Fritter away leftover food

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

There is a lot of good meat left on ham, turkey and chicken bones. Rather than throwing such leftovers away since you can't get good slices for sandwiches, clean the meat from the bones and make main dish fritters. These prove to be surprise treats for most. Deep fry inpeanut oil to cut down on cholesterol and add different seasonings or ligredients to the leftover meats according to your whim or family tastes. Serve fritters with a tomato sauce, creamy mushroom sauce or your favorite maple syrup.

MAIN DISH FRITTERS

- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 egg yolks
- 1 cup milk
- 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- 2 cups diced cooked ham, chicken, turkey or sauteed cooking ground beef

Add one of the following for seasoning:

- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded cheddar cheese for ham
- ½ teaspoon poultry seasoning for poultry
- 2 tablespoons instant minced onion and ½ teaspoon oregano for beef

Peanut oil — 2 inches deep heated to 380 degrees

In a bowl, mix flour, baking powder, salt, egg yolks and milk until smooth. Fold in egg whites and cooked meat. Stir in desired seasoning. Drop mixture by heaping tablespoons into preheated peanut oil. Fry 5 to 6 minutes or until fritters are golden brown on all sides. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve topped with your favorite spicy tomato sauce or creamy mushroom sauce. Can also be served with warm maple syrup. Makes 24 fritters.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "DO FIGS HAVE FLOWERS?"

KELLY JORDAN
WINSTON-SALEM, NC

A. YES, HIDDEN INSIDE THE FIG ITSELF THERE ARE MANY TINY FLOWERS. A LITTLE HOLE AT ONE END OF THE FIG IS THE "DOOR" TO THE FLOWER HEAD.

DICK Rogers
9/1

The fig is sometimes called a fruit without a flower because no visible blossom develops before the fruit.

However, inside the pear-shaped fruit there are actually several hundred tiny flowers. A little hole at one end of the fig, called the "eye" of the fig, is the door into the flower head.

The flowers of most kinds of figs do not have to be pollinated for the fig to develop.

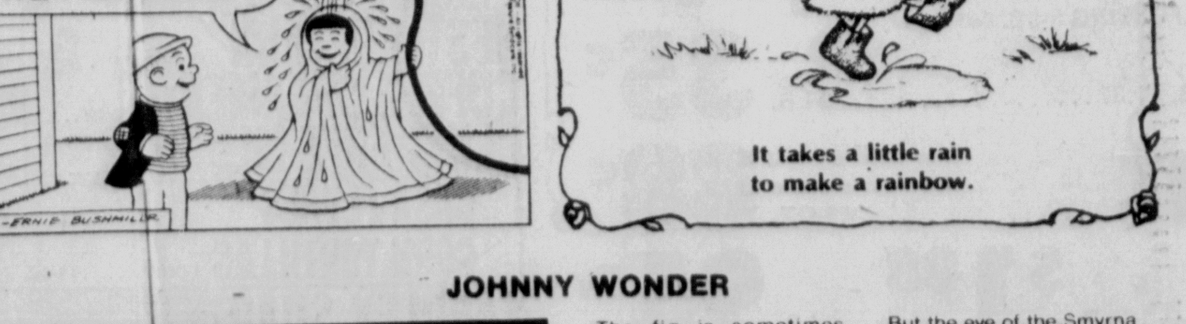

An exception is the delicious Smyrna fig. It must be pollinated either by a special man-made "pollen" spray or by pollen from the flowers of another fig before it will mature.

But the eye of the Smyrna fig is too small to allow pollination by the wind or by bees and other ordinary insects. Instead, it depends on a tiny wasplike insect known as the fig wasp.

Its body dusted with the pollen of another fig, the tiny wasp crawls into the Smyrna fig and rubs off the pollen on the flowers inside, thus fertilizing the fig.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

PEANUTS

Well, mound, that's it for another year.

I guess it wasn't much of a season for either of us . . .

Maybe someday we'll do better.

My mother thinks I'm in Yankee stadium.

Woman Achiever

Contest open

Pomona Valley Women, a supplement of the Progress Bulletin highlighting activities of all women's clubs in Pomona Valley, will be published Oct. 26.

Four Women Achievers, selected by a panel of five judges, will be honored in the edition along with all the women who are represented in reviews of the activities of more than 180 women's organizations.

This year will mark the 11th anniversary of the presentation of trophies to Pomona Valley women.

Fact sheets for club inclusion in the annual edition went into the mail Friday and were addressed to the president or publicity chairman of every club listed with the Family Section. Deadline for return of the club forms is Sept. 21.

The Women Achievers will be paid tribute for their contributions of time and service to their community at a luncheon in November. Former honorees will be feted along with the 1976 awardees. The luncheon will be open to all Pomona Valley women.

Nomination blanks, mailed last week, must be returned to the Family Section of the Progress Bulletin not later than Sept. 17.

Additional Woman Achiever nomination forms may be obtained at the Family Section desk at the Progress Bulletin.

Man cannot forget

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My wife was raped three months ago. Since then our sexual relations have been terrible, and I know it's mostly my fault. I can't help it, but I am almost repulsed by her. It's as if the rapist were always present and as if she'd been spoiled by him. I swear if I ever meet the guy, I'll kill him because he's ruined my life as well as my wife's. I can't imagine any man who'd do this. — L.V.

Dear L.V.: Your wife has been through a most traumatic experience. To help her, you must help yourself. What you're experiencing is not uncommon.

The impact of rape on the man closest to the victim is often deep and unpredictable. The crime of rape may uncover latent sexist attitudes in males, such as the view of a wife as property that has been damaged. At a time when a woman most needs her husband's help, he may find he is unable to be supportive because of his own prejudice.

You may need professional advice to overcome your problems. Don't hesitate to ask for help. It doesn't necessarily indicate failure on your part.

The first reaction of the rape victim is usually disbelief, followed by terror and fear that the rapist will kill or physically harm her or someone she loves. She is left with a feeling of powerlessness and vulnerability which may make her angry at all males, or seriously depressed. She may feel disgust for her attacker, and perhaps for males, in general. Her feelings of hatred, distrust and disgust may also be extended to include herself. It may take years, sometimes a lifetime, to overcome the psychological damage.

Rape is a crime of anger and hostility. The rapist usually has trouble relating to both sexes. His main motive is usually not sexual so much as a desire to hurt and humiliate women.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My son's teachers think he has a great deal of musical talent. He wants to join the school band but his father is annoyed because he's always wanted our boy to go out for sports. Sports bore our son and he only pretends to enjoy watching games because he knows it pleases his dad. My husband's made such a fuss that our son offered to substitute basketball for music as an extracurricular activity. I feel this is wrong. Do you? — J.P.

Dear J.P.: Definitely. I think your husband needs to face the fact that he can't live his son's life. If he continues to try, the boy is bound to resent it eventually. Your letter indicates that they still have a good relationship. This wouldn't be possible if your husband's basic feeling of love had not come through to the boy. It would be a shame to destroy this feeling now.

Your husband should try to show your son that he'll be proud no matter what the boy chooses as long as he does it well and lives up to his own potential. It would also be helpful if your husband could expand his own interests to include music so that he could give his son encouragement when it is needed.

You are fortunate. Your son has such a strong interest in and respect for his father, that he offered to make a sacrifice. You and your husband should encourage him to follow his talent, not ignore it.

Youths charged with setting big brush fire

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Two 17-year-old boys are formally accused of starting a four-day fire that destroyed 2,700 acres of brush in the Anza-Borrego Desert State Park.

The charges against Michael James Kopasek and Steven John Hebner, both of suburban Lemon Grove, include felony arson and two misdemeanor counts of allowing fires to get out of control.

Authorities said the pair was on probation for drinking beer and riding motorcycles in the park and were in an area where no fires are allowed when the blaze broke out June 12.
